It's Final 'Cheerio' For Wodehouse

By STANLEY JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
REMSENBERG, N.Y.
(AP) — Humorist P.G. Wodehouse, smilingly at work on what would have been his 97th book, said "cheerio" to his wife of 62 years and then died at nearby Southampton Hospital after she went home.

He had entered the hospital Tuesday for treatment of an irritating skin rash. He was 93.
His sister-in-law, Nella Wodehouse, said that otherwise all had appeared well with the man who practically invented the butler when he created Jeeves.

"We saw him at 7:30, and he was fine ... laughing," she said after Wodehouse's death Friday night. "Everything happened a little while after that. We were home when the doctor phoned, and said he had died peacefully sitting in a chair in his room. It must have been his heart."

Plum, as Wodehouse was known to friends, had been in an even more than usual euphoric mood since New Year's Day when he was knighted by Queen Elizabeth II, although he became an American citizen in 1955.

"This is the great thing," he told friends who gathered to help him celebrate in his sprawling ranch house in this quiet community on the south shore of Long Island.

He and his wife, Ethel, were trapped in occupied France by the Nazi invaders, and he made several broadcasts making light of his plight.

P.G. WODEHOUSE

The Wodehouses were caught at Le Touquet in a plot twist he might have invented for one of his novels or one of the 33 musical comedies he wrote — often with Jerome Kern doing the music.

He Carried His Rifle Everywhere, Even Unto Death

SEATTLE (AP) — Albert Loges carried his rifle with him everywhere, even to the grocery store.

But when police came to question him about it Friday, the 58-year-old transient holed up in his $50-a-month hotel room. He was shot to death an hour later after firing on the officers, police said.

Grocer John Kovacevic telephoned police and said he asked for a plainclothes officer to investigate Loges, who had been trading at his store for three or four months and always carried the M1 carbine.

Kovacevic said he finally told Loges on Friday to take the weapon home, "leave it home, come back and do your shopping later." Loges began to shake violently, paid for his groceries and left.

It's Confusing Food Cost Rate Slowing Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — The increase in the cost of food is slowing down, but government economists say another round of bad weather could send grocery prices soaring again by the end of the year.

Favorable weather and the expectation of large harvests could bring about a substantial slowing in food price increases by mid-year and possibly some declines late in the year, the Agriculture Department said Friday.

But the department's Outlook and Situation Board cautioned that "another year of poor growing conditions and disappointing harvests could result in even further food price increases."

'Fast' Relief From Tank Attacks Arms Ads Go Madison Ave.

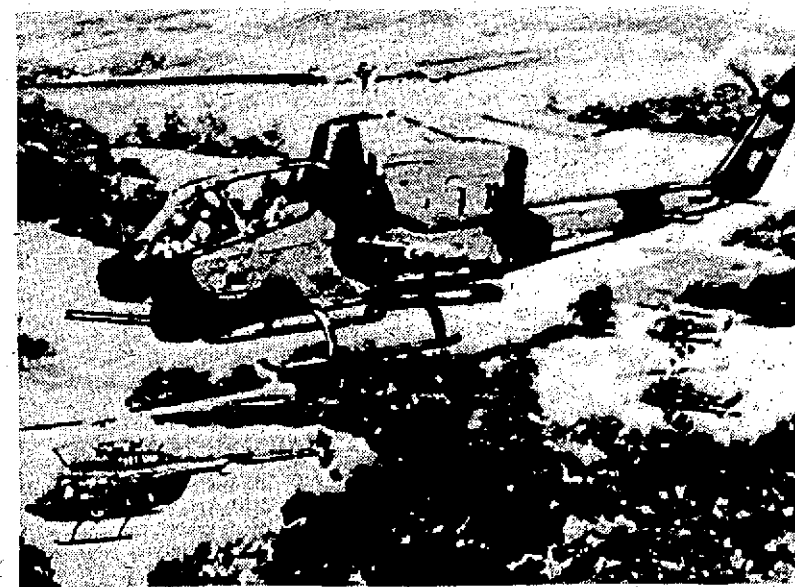

By RICHARD H. PYLE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — "Enemy Tank Attack! You can stop it fast. With the world's most effective antitank system."

With advertisements that read like Madison Avenue promotions for aspirin, the nation's largest helicopter manufacturer boosts its line of $1 million attack aircraft in internationally circulated magazines.

Bell Helicopter Co., of Fort Worth, Tex., will provide 202 of its fast, rocket-firing Sea Cobra helicopters and 287 utility helicopters to Iran. Meanwhile, a sister company, Bell Helicopter International, holds a contract to train an Iranian army combat strike force modeled on American units in Vietnam.

Many companies which build both military and civilian products feature their war hardware in advertising, usually to emphasize achievements in research and development. Rarely do the ads contain the unabashed appeal to potential military buyers of the Bell ad which appeared in publications recently.

Next to a drawing of a Cobra attack helicopter in action, the ad extols its death-dealing capabilities: "The Cobra strikes at long range from concealed defensive positions. Target in view, it leaps up from ground cover. Unleashes its ordnance with precision accuracy. Then leaves. Fast!"

It ends with the slogan, "Peacekeepers around the world depend on Bell Helicopter."

Company officials say their sales of such products probably result mostly from demonstration tours and are handled through diplomatic channels, but that the advertising in general circulation magazines helps to attract the attention of heads of state and other influential people.

Marty Reisch, a Bell Helicopter spokesman, said his firm competes with British, French and other American companies "and there's an awareness factor in a competitive situation, in which the ads serve a certain purpose."

'Blues' Seeking 23.9% Rate Hike

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan Blue Cross and Blue Shield, the state's largest medical insurers, asked the Michigan Insurance Commissioner late Friday night for an average 23.9 per cent rate increase.

The firms requested that the increases begin to take effect in July. They did not say what the dollar-amount of the requested increase was or how much the average subscriber's monthly premiums would go up.

Blue Cross-Blue Shield treasurer Clifford Gardner blamed the proposed increase on inflation and rate cuts ordered by the insurance commissioner in the last three years.

Blue Cross, which covers hospital bills, is requesting a 22 per cent rate hike. Blue Shield, which pays physicians' expenses, is seeking a 26.8 per cent boost.

Denaturing Demon Rum

Despite the publicity centering upon his coaching prowess, the commonwealth of Ohio is notable for many things besides Woodrow (Woody) Hays.

Its industrial concentration is a keystone in the national economy. It has installed several Presidents in the White House and provided the nation with a long line of excellent, lowered rank officials. It is the home of many top flight educational institutions, public and private. Its inhabitants long have been the inner core of what has been idolized as the typical American.

It also is the birthplace of two organizations dedicated to limiting one's liquid intake to nothing stronger than coffee, tea or grape juice.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union first organized at Cleveland in 1874 and its male counterpart followed in 1893.

Between them they developed the political muscle to put across the 18th Amendment and its enabling legislation, the Volstead Act, in 1919. Prior to nationalizing Prohibition, the two groups effectively legislated demon rum out of many states. Michigan surrendered in 1916.

Though the 1930s depression killed Prohibition and their influence, the WCTU and the League maintain themselves as formalized units promoting temperance by whatever openings seem appropriate.

The incontrovertibly dangerous mix of alcohol and gasoline is not a pitch exclusive to the National Safety Council. The heavy taxes on spirits and the state controlled distribution system attest to compromise with recognizable political clout when Repeal came in. The newest argument is reducing the amount of grain absorbed by the breweries and distilleries and shipping that forced surplus to the underdeveloped, starved countries.

Bob Lazarus, a most knowledgeable marketing staffer on The Chicago Tribune, one of the few financial writers who can lighten his delivery with a humorous touch, revealed this week a move within the liquor industry which should be grist to the dry's mill.

Like anything else the cost of making booze has risen dramatically. Raw material, notably corn, is twice what it was two years ago. Labor has risen 55 per cent. Bottles, caps and labels have increased 20 per cent.

Price boosts have been a somewhat hesitant answer because of the competitive factor from cheap wine and the spectre of bootlegging.

Motivated possibly by a sensation that a noontime cocktail may lack some of the punch it carried a year ago, Lazarus conducted a survey to discover that indeed a snort is not as snorty as it has been.

The distillers are lowering the proof, the alcoholic content, in the popular brands.

The reduction from 86 to 80 proof (43 to 40 per cent) is a 7 per cent withdrawal from the cup that cheers.

The customer still pays the same price, but the distiller makes some headway on raw material costs and saves himself some tax as well. The lower alcoholic content drops the federal excise tax on a 12-bottle case by $1.50.

Lazarus reports the Michigan Liquor Control Commission informed him that 37 brands already have been so denatured and that industry spokesmen indicated it will be much wider spread by this year-end.

This concession to temperance may work unless the consumerism movement takes up the cudgels or the customer attempts an individualized counterattack.

Should that uninvited gesture gain momentum, one would assume the League and the WCTU might become unplanned allies of the industry by arguing that consumerism should concentrate on essentials first and check out the hard stuff later.

available to it over at least the short-term.

In the case of the United States and its goal of energy self-sufficiency, petroleum and natural gas reserves within U.S. borders take on a special importance. If the volume is seriously overestimated, the shortfall could have serious repercussions.

Thus, the opinion of a private scientific organization that official estimates of undiscovered fuel reserves are grossly overstated is important. A committee on mineral resources and the environment of the National Academy of Science believes official government estimates of undiscovered but recoverable oil and gas reserves may be several times too high.

In the case of oil, the study places maximum undiscovered reserves at 113 billion barrels, compared with government estimates of between 200 and 400 billion barrels. The committee places undiscovered gas reserves at 530 trillion cubic feet, as opposed to government estimates of between 990 and 2,000 trillion cubic feet.

Estimates of other private sources, including some of the major oil companies, also place recoverable and undiscovered reserves at considerably lower levels than estimates made by the U.S. Geological Survey.

In its study, the National Academy of Science panel further estimates that 70 per cent of these resources may be in Alaska and the outer continental shelf. It would be extremely difficult to bring about a large increase in national production rates.

The chairman of the academy's study, Dr. Brian J. Skinner of Yale University's geology department, concluded: "It is most unlikely that a substantial increase in production can ever be attained, even for a short time."

If so, hat means even to approach the goal of national self-sufficiency by the mid-1980s will require far more stringent conservation measures than anything so far proposed.

FINDS LETTERS INTERESTING

Editor,
I found the two letters to the editor and picture, "Familiar Scene" most interesting in the February 10 paper and wish to comment.

No doubt it was unnerving for the gentleman who woke up and discovered that the electric power had failed, so no alarm clock and didn't wake up on time. You didn't say but probably no coffee either. Next, had to manually open the garage door, and then the "dumb" car didn't start. But please think with me. How many people in the world do you think envy us just to experience such an exasperating incident?

Many of us have been and still are thankful to all the men who have served our country honorably. Our service men have served at great odds and fought a war with no possibility to win. We thank you Mrs. Alden for writing and are grateful to the boys who are still serving our country.

Also, appreciated Captain Kane's letter for speaking up for our boys in blue.

It seems that the plotters and schemers are constantly at work and from somewhere they seem to be well financed. On March 7 Timothy Heinan is going to tell us why Washington wants to control our police. He will speak at the Youth Memorial Building, Berrien Springs.

First we must clearly understand the issues and inform ourselves and then take a stand or we will all find ourselves with greatly curtailed electricity and maybe no car and no local police.

Fifty thousand dollars or more has been expended in remodeling the First Methodist church of St. Joseph, which it is expected to dedicate about the first of March.

In addition to that sum, $6,000 was given for the memorial pipe organ that is now being installed. It is not all placed as yet. Workmen have been busy handling the large pipes and the delicate mechanism of the instrument for the past two weeks. The money for the organ was given by Neal Ward of Chicago, in memory of his parents, old time residents of St. Joseph, and members of this church. Ten completely equipped Sunday school rooms are contained in the new addition, extending back to the alley. An opera seating system prevails in the Sunday school auditorium, which is equipped with a moving picture machine, platform, piano, excellent lighting, and leads off from the Sunday school suite. It was learned that Benjamin F. Rimes completely furnished the

MORE COMMENTS ON HARTFORD SCHOOLS

Editor,
I am writing in answer to Shannon McRae's letter, "Let your children grow up."

First off, I would like to ask Shannon McRae if she has any children in the Hartford school, if she doesn't she does not know our problem.

I feel that the dangers of abuse of drugs, sex and alcohol should be taught at home and not by someone that has different standards and morals than the parents of the children.

We feel they are over-taught on the subjects already and it is teaching the children what to look for, where to get it and how to use it.

I like you Shannon McRae am not a user of alcohol, nicotine or caffeine, but how many of these drugs lead to the use of harder drugs, as is the case with marijuana?

You were also correct in stating that the world is full of hard drugs, V.D., alcohol and cigarettes. I don't feel that children should be kept ignorant of the facts of drugs and sex, however I still feel that it is up to the parents to teach their

Planning Course In Cloudland

WASHINGTON — The snail-like economic recovery and continued high unemployment projected in President Ford's budget are no accident.

It is planned that way. In private talks, Mr. Ford's economic advisers make clear they believe this country cannot solve its energy and inflation problems, which worry them in the long run far more than today's recession, unless they carefully manipulate the price and consumption of energy and other essential products now in short supply as thoroughly as they can without reaching a breaking point in the nation's economy.

Anything less, they are convinced, would dangerously prolong our military and economic dependence on unpredictable decisions by the foreign nations which control the world's exportable oil resources. And lead to unbearable inflation.

Since both inflation and our demand for foreign oil have strong built-in growth, we will have to run hard to hold our own.

These advisers have calculated mathematically exactly how hard we must run, and matched their computer results with the maximum we can bear in suffering and industrial lag.

They have mapped out a program which comes as close as they dare to the point where these lines meet. They have no way — except through their computer calculations — of knowing whether they have gone too far.

The President's experts have made repeated miscalculations in recent economic predictions. But these scholars retain all their old belief in themselves. They say there is now new data which gives them confidence they are correct and their detractors wrong.

After talking with these men, I am convinced they believe their computer mathematics. But I question their sense of reality. Economic theory is not a science which can be applied so precisely to real life.

When I majored in mathematics, professors stressed time and again that numbers and theorems had no meaning except as they could be related to and proven in real life. This rule apparently has not reached President Ford's planners. Their background discussions are filled with words — matrices, elasticity, money theory. Attempting to pin these men down on how they reached their conclusions, produces a circumlocutory answer: "We did a lot of studies, considered all possibilities. Took all possible variations and contingencies into account."

"What precisely did you take into account?"

Again, a lot of words, but no answer.

"What would be the effect of changes in your plans?"

"Each change has an effect on something else. We took all that into account."

Ask these experts why businessmen say things won't work out as they predict. Your answer comes back sharply: "They're prejudiced. They're afraid that what we plan will cut their share of the markets."

The university research men too?

"Yes, they're concerned with what our programs will do to their tuition rates."

Everyone who disagrees is prejudiced, or mistaken. Mostly prejudiced.

It goes to make one nervous about the future.

Wallace, Reagan May Face Vacuum

When the historical moment is at hand for significant change, even unrelated events seem to converge and move the process forward. Thus Watergate severely damaged the Republicans and led to the 1974 electoral debacle, spurring talk about the need for a new national political party. Now President Gerald Ford's own economic projections spell further electoral disasters involving the elimination of many or most of the Republican survivors now in Congress.

Thus the Administration, which had predicted an unemployment rate of 8.1 per cent in 1975, is now faced with last month's startling jump to 8.2 per cent in the nation's unemployment rate, the highest since 1941. Running on that record will certainly be "pretty scary" as Sen. Robert Dole, former Republican national chairman, recently remarked in a burst of candor. Republicans will go before the voters as the party of corruption, depression and inflation, the Job-like aura of the party enhanced by the real possibility of foreign policy debacles: trauma in Southeast Asia or the Middle East, a Communist government in Lisbon and a Soviet naval base in the Azores.

None of this of course means that the Democrats in Congress are in any sense in tune with the national mood, merely reshaping the old welfareist, deficit spending, bureaucratizing themes.

What we do appear to face, however, is the opening up of a big political vacuum on the center and right of American politics. The issues are there, polls show the votes are there in an increasingly conservative electorate, and politics like nature abhors a vacuum. Inevitably that vacuum on the center and right will be filled.

Within the past week, strikingly enough, both Governor George Wallace of Alabama and former Governor Ronald Reagan of California zoned in on the big issue that would be fundamental to the creation of a new political party keyed to popular protest. A Reagan comment that he is "very disappointed" that the Administration has "decided not to tackle head-on the powerful groups that have a vested interest in big government and deficit spending" received wide attention.

There has also just crossed my desk a very impressive and well-conceived piece of campaign literature from the Wallace headquarters, in the form of a three-page letter over the governor's signature. Wallace, too, zeroes in on themes that would be central to a new political party based on popular protest.

"I plan," he writes, "to continue speaking out on some issues that are quite disturbing to me. I'd like to list a few of these for you:

"(1) Crime is increasing at an alarming rate and the judicial process is in desperate need of reform.

"(2) Inflation has been eating up your paycheck because the Federal spending has doubled in the last five years.

"(3) I'm gravely concerned about the issue of amnesty. Why should draft dodgers and deserters get off with a slap on the wrist when thousands of our American boys proudly served.

many died in defense of freedom?

"(4) I am concerned that most politicians in Washington want to give a guaranteed income to people even if they are healthy and refuse to work.

"(5) I am worried that in less than ten years America went from clear military superiority over the Communists to now being militarily weaker than the Communists."

Wallace and Reagan know the words and they know the music. It is impossible to see any future for Wallace in the Democratic Party: his five points almost seem deliberately phrased to outrage every last member of the dominant liberal-left wing of the party. Nor is it easy to believe that Reagan would wish to run under the Republican label in 1976, the very word Republican constituting a kind of kiss of death.

Resource Reserve Estimates Vary

Estimating undiscovered natural resource reserves is a chancy business at best. Even with known reserves, the recoverable volume may be considerably different from initial estimates.

When the reserves in question involve oil and natural gas, undoubtedly two of the most eagerly sought minerals these days, the room for misunderstandings increases. It is an essential part of any nation's goal of energy conservation that it have a good idea of the fuels which will be

Buchanan Police Stop Sidewalk Reclamation Try

BUCHANAN — There was a rat-a-tat-tat here yesterday, but it was nothing like the infamous St. Valentine's Day massacre in Chicago.

Instead, it was two members of a Galien construction crew trying to reclaim a city sidewalk with a jackhammer.

The drilling was stopped by city police and it will be determined later whether a warrant will be sought because of damage to the sidewalks, according to Buchanan Police Chief Dan Moore.

The Valentine's Day repossession attempt came after complaint by Mullberg Construction Co. of Galien that it had not been paid since last summer by a contractor for Michigan Bell Telephone Co. for rebuilding the sidewalk.

The contractor had installed underground cables for the phone company.

The disputed sidewalk, nearly two blocks long, came to the attention of Buchanan city officials when the Mullberg company published a notice last week in a newspaper telling residents it had not been paid for the sidewalk and would remove it Friday.

Atty. William Desenber contended the workmen were in violation of a circuit court restraining order obtained by Michigan Bell Thursday from Judge Julian Hughes in St. Joseph.

City Manager Robert Faulhaber said the Buchanan city commission voted Monday night to intervene in the phone company request for the restraining order forbidding the Galien firm from digging up the sidewalk.

Berrien Pageant To Salute 1776

A countywide historical pageant will be staged in July of 1976 at the Berrien Springs Youth fairgrounds, according to Mrs. F. V. Cupp, '76 festivals chairman of the Berrien County Bicentennial commission.

The two-hour pageant and 300-member cast will dramatize the evolution of the county, from early days of Indians, explorers and fur traders through first settlers, beginning industries and agriculture to the present.

The cast will be selected from residents of various communities of the county, and areas of historical interest throughout the county will be presented in the pageant.

Exact dates have not been determined, but the pageant will be presented on at least four successive days with a fifth day as optional, depending on ticket sales.

Six months of preliminary planning by the '76 festivals committee ended recently with signing of a contract with the Rogers company of Fostoria, Ohio, to stage the event.

The company, producers of successful historical celebrations for more than 70 years, will prepare the final script, assist in cast selection, and direct the production.

The preliminary pageant script will be prepared by a team of writers working from information supplied by historians of all governmental units in the county.

"The deadline of April 15, 1975 for material from all local historians is fast approaching,"

Consumers Says Midland Costs Soar

MIDLAND, Mich. (AP) — It will cost at least $1.1 billion, four times the original estimate, to complete construction of Consumer Power Company's nuclear plant near Midland, a company official says.

The completion date has been delayed at least one year and possibly two because of a lack of investment capital, said William Kessler, plant project manager.

The first nuclear unit will not be completed until at least 1989. The start-up date was scheduled for 1979. The cost originally was estimated at $267 million, Kessler said Thursday.

The company has also been having problems with its power plant in Van Buren county in southwestern Michigan.

The company's Palisades nuclear plant, south of South Haven, has been shut down since Aug. 11, 1973, with the exception of periodic testing in late 1974. Company officials have stated it is costing the company $7 million a month to replace the power that normally would be produced from the Palisades plant.

"When capital investment funds started slowing down last year we could have either shut down construction or gone with a low key effort," Kessler said of the Midland plant.

"The low key effort of about 20 per cent was selected and judged most economical. It would keep most subcontractors on the job and we found after the 1971 shutdown that rebidding and resumption costs were astronomical."

He said Consumers has invested $200 million in the project. The first unit was to go on line in 1973 and a second generator in 1980.

Consumers Chairman A. H. Aymond said earlier this week the project probably would be two years late.

Kessler said engineering work is now 40 per cent complete and construction is about 10 per cent finished.

Rampart Halts Ambulance Runs

Rampart ambulances stopped rolling at noon Friday, reported Bruce Leavitt, president of the financially-troubled firm.

Leavitt last Thursday announced that operations were to cease at 11:58 p.m. next Monday. He announced the earlier deadline Friday.

Leavitt said he will recommend to Rampart board members and stockholders that major functions of the service be closed, while the company goes through liquidation proceedings. Office functions of collecting money and paying bills will continue, he said.

The board meets at 3 p.m. Monday, while stockholders are to meet at 4 p.m. Leavitt said.

An account of Rampart financial problems was carried in Friday's editions of this newspaper. Rampart headquarters are at 1496 M-139, Benton township.

Buchanan Teacher's Appeal Is Rejected

MUSKEGON — Former Buchanan high school teacher John Moulder's appeal of his dismissal by the school board was turned down by the state teacher tenure commission here yesterday.

Meeting in the Muskegon, the tenure commission rejected Moulder's claims that the school board committed a series of procedural errors during a public hearing that eventually led to his dismissal.

Reached at his South Bend home last night, the 56-year-old English instructor said he was, "extremely frustrated," at the commission's ruling. Moulder said he planned to meet with representatives of the Michigan Education association and his attorney before deciding whether to appeal the dismissal further.

Moulder said he has the option of filing a further appeal with the commission over evidence presented at the school board-conducted public hearing or taking his case to court.

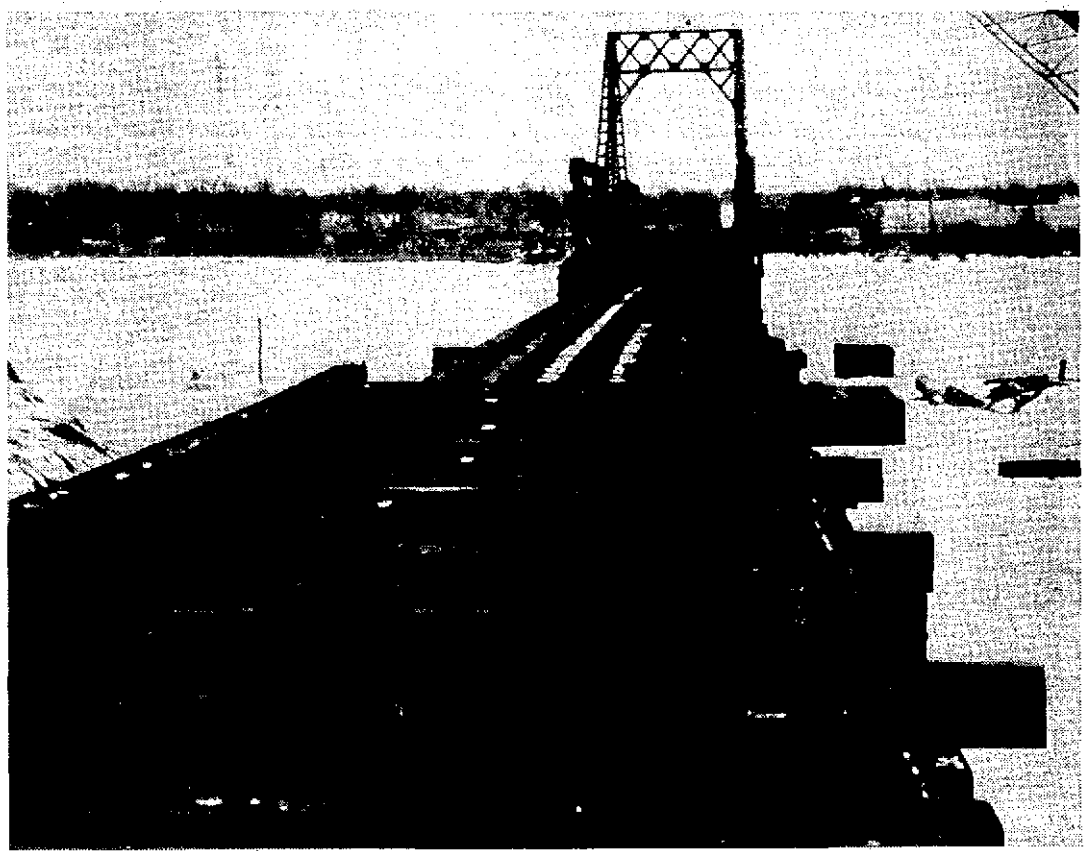

He said he expected a decision on whether to appeal the ruling to be made, "soon," but would give no exact date.

Moulder was dismissed by the school board on Oct. 3, 1974, following an eight-session public hearing requested by the teacher. He was first suspended from teaching duties in April of last year.

High school principal Dr. Walter Vanderbush leveled a series of five allegations against Moulder during the hearing including claims the teacher was ineffective in the classroom, was unable or unwilling to provide classroom control, and failed to follow administrative directives.

Harbor Dredging Site Could Have Port Use

By JERRY KRIEGER
County-Farm Editor

A proposal that would parlay the need for a site to store polluted harbor dredgings into a future Twin Cities port facility was outlined here Friday.

A 32-acre tract of privately-owned property on St. Joseph's Industrial Island, generally across the river from Benton Harbor's Riverview district, has already been identified as the most economical site for depositing harbor dredgings.

The policy committee of the Twin Cities Area Transportation Study (Twin-CATS) yesterday received a requested study on the feasibility of using that site, once built up with harbor dredgings, for docks and other port facilities.

The report, prepared by the Brien county planning commission staff for Twin-CATS, noted that the new highway bridges to be constructed between St. Joseph and Benton Harbor open up the opportunity to extend the navigation channel for deep water vessels above the current harbor area. The current harbor area ends at the old highway bridge between the two cities.

A state highway department representative told the committee yesterday the new bridges are being built to allow for a 27-foot channel depth and 105-foot width. This would accommodate a majority of Great Lakes ships and international vessels that use the Great Lakes.

Brian Sott, assistant county planning director, said a U.S. Corps of Engineers representative is expected to come here next Tuesday to talk with the several property owners in the projected 32-acre site to determine if the tract is available for purchase. The Corps, which is charged with harbor dredging, said any on-land dredging disposal site must be in public ownership.

The preliminary "Twin Cities Area Harbor Development Project" report prepared by the planning commission staff said there are 360,000 cubic yards of polluted bottom sediments requiring disposal over the next 10 years from the present harbor area. There is another estimated 1 million cubic yards of dredgings available above the inter-city bridges between Industrial Island and Benton Harbor.

Sott said the available fill from the river could raise the level of the 32-acre site some six feet.

The report recommended reorganization of the Twin Cities Port commission "into a group which will aggressively promote port development and investigate the organization of a port district under appropriate state and federal legislation."

The report suggested federal and state grant programs are available for possible development of docks and other port facilities.

Sott said the Corps of Engineers has estimated the cost of dredging harbor sediment for 10 years onto the Industrial Island site at $1.2 million. This would be by far the cheapest of nine alternative dredging sites studied by the Corps, because the government dredges could pump the bottom sediment directly onto Industrial Island. Other potential sites would call for floating pipelines.

Owners of property in the 32-acre tract were identified as the Robinson estate, Cities Service Oil Co., Gordon Hoschein, and Chauncy Lester. The plot generally runs from the south edge of Robinson Marina to the Twin Cities sewage disposal plant.

In other actions yesterday, the Twin-CATS committee:

Voted to ask the state highway department to include the so-called "River Route" for the I-94 penetrator into St. Joseph in the environmental impact study now being made of possible routes for the penetrator.

Urged all governmental units and other organizations concerned with the proposed abandonment of the Penn Central railroad lines from Benton Harbor to Niles and from Kalamazoo to Michigan City via Niles to contact their representatives in Congress to oppose abandonment.

Food-Choking Kills Infant

St. Joseph police reported that a 6-month-old boy died Friday night, apparently from choking on food.

Pronounced dead on arrival at Memorial hospital at 8:40 p.m. was David A. Terrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Terrell, 804½ Park street.

Police said an autopsy was to be performed today by Dr. Edwin Hubbard.

Officers stated that Mrs. Terrell told of feeding David at 7 p.m. and putting him to bed at 7:30 p.m. About a half-hour later, she heard crying and choking.

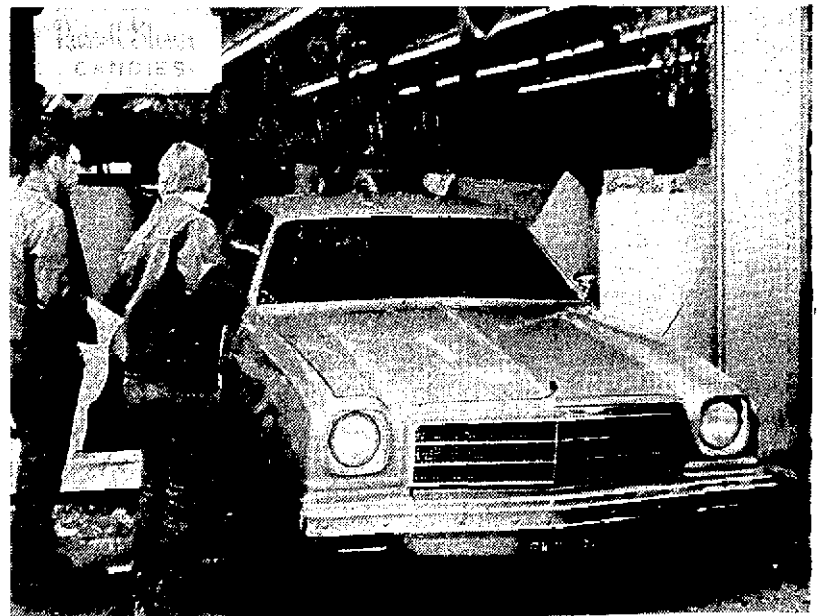

Action ambulance was called. The ambulance firm reported that police were contacted at once and met the ambulance at the house. The spokesman said mouth-to-mouth resuscitation was administered.

Police said the child had vomited and appeared to have choked. Officers stated the child had turned blue and it is not known if he was alive when help arrived. Action reported the child was unconscious and no breathing could be detected.

Surviving, besides the parents, are the paternal grandmother, Mrs. Tommie Terrell of California, and maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Smith, of New Troy.

Graveside services will be at 11 a.m. Monday, at New Troy cemetery. Friends may call at the Boyd funeral home, Bridgman, from 8 to 9 p.m. Sunday.

STORE DAMAGED: Auto above was not part of Valentine's display at Badt's drug store, 248 Paw Paw street, Coloma, but may have appeared that way after it crashed through store window causing damage to building and contents Friday at 2:55 p.m. Auto driven by Mrs. Bharati Doshi, 38, of 1106 Highland avenue, St. Joseph, was backing out of Badt's parking lot when gas pedal apparently stuck causing auto to strike parked car, jump curb and smash through window, according to Coloma Police Chief Ken Unruh. No ticket was issued. Passengers in Doshi car, Bhairari Manon Trivedi, 26, of 394 Timber drive, Coloma, and Mrs. Doshi's daughter, Nina, 3, were not injured. Ray Whitcomb, 3561 Lincoln avenue, Lincoln township was hit on ankle by magazine rack in store. (Photo by Cliff Stevens).

At Memorial Hospital

Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, has a new program to prepare youngsters emotionally as well as physically for a stay in the hospital.

A pediatric orientation program, conducted by registered nurses from the Volunteer department, is scheduled for 4 p. m. on the second Monday of the month in the Forum.

The program explains admission procedure, gives children an opportunity to feel and use equipment they will encounter during their hospital stay and an opportunity to ask questions. A ten-minute film, "Cathy has an operation," is also shown.

Dr. Samuel Gould, chief of the pediatrics department, said: "awareness of the emotional and the physical needs of a child and the parental participation in the care and treatment is of utmost importance."

Information concerning the program may be obtained from the volunteer department.

Lenten

Meditation

By Rev. Garth D. Smith
Grace United Methodist Church, Benton Harbor
Today's Scripture: 1 John 1:8-18

The Lenten season is a time for soul searching and of penitence, a time to reassess ourselves that we are in a right relationship with our God and with His son Jesus Christ.

The work of salvation is in bringing people to walk in the light and in confronting them with the dangers of walking or living the wrong kind of life. Darkness or evil ways bring uncertainty, frustration, futility and purposelessness in life.

We live a lie, we substitute falsehood for truth in thought, word and deed. Thus we deceive ourselves and perhaps those about us.

As Christians we enjoy true friendship only when we live without deception and are willing to be known to one another as we really are, our faults and sins as well as our virtues.

The greatest truth of the gospel, however, is that while we are urged to acknowledge our sins, we are not condemned to bear them and that peace of mind and soul is possible only when we confess our sins. When we confess them, God will free us from them, for He is consistently a forgiving God.

These Lenten Meditations are coordinated by the Berrien County Council of Churches.

Don't Miss Cacti Beauty

11th in a series of 12

Succulents and cacti fall into a separate category because they function differently than other household plants.

They store water in their stems and leaves to help them through long dry spells. Therefore, they are ideal for sunny, dry conditions, which are found in many homes and apartments.

They prefer being watered days when the moisture can be absorbed.

Both succulents and cacti are slow but steady growers and need little attention. They are often passed over by people who prefer the lush greenery of long, lush leaves, but they have a quiet lasting beauty that should not be overlooked.

about half as much as other plants and would probably be better off if you "forgot" to water them once in a while.

Cacti need very infrequent waterings in the winter, just enough to keep their foliage from shriveling — perhaps once every two weeks. In the spring (to fall), once or twice a week is good or whenever the soil is very dry. Water only on sunny

Fuse Burning Shorter In Major Lutheran Denomination

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

The fuse is burning shorter in a major denomination of U.S. Lutherans and one segment of the church last week readied a place to land when, and if, the blowup comes.

At the same time, it was reported that nearly all of the church's ministerial candidates who finished training at a rebel seminary now have been ordained or scheduled for it — against orders of the church president.

The developments came in the controversy-wracked Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, a Midwestern-based body which has congregations across the nation, totaling 2.8 million members.

Crux of the issue is whether the current conservative church administration, backed by resolutions of a governing convention, has authority to impose uniform interpretations of the Bible.

Opposing efforts to do so, a group known as moderates met in Chicago last weekend and authorized incorporation of a non-profit body to be called the Lutheran Church in Mission.

It was projected as a standby organization, ready in case a split occurs, to provide a transitional structure on a temporary basis for groups or congregations leaving the denomination.

"If separate existence becomes necessary, something we all hope even now can be avoided, we intend our organization to be short-lived," says the Rev. Dr. Thomas Spitz of Manhasset, N.Y., a leader in the Chicago planning.

"Hopefully, some kind of relationship or new alignment involving other Lutherans will emerge into which we can enter," he adds, referring to possible future inclusion in other already existing major Lutheran bodies.

Meanwhile, the Rev. Charles Vogeley, a graduate of a seminary-in-exile, Seminex, formed in St. Louis a year ago when most students and faculty walked out of the denomination's regular seminary in protest, was ordained and installed last Sunday at the Lutheran Church of Our Savior in Port Washington, N.Y.

Virtually all of Seminex's approximately 100 graduates now have received church calls, most of them ordained in defiance of orders by the church's president, the Rev. Dr. J.A.O. Proulx.

Seminex, set up when the Rev. Dr. John Tietjen was fired as president of the denomination's historic Concordia Seminary on charges of teaching false doctrine, recently made him its president.

It has 403 students this year, with classrooms in neighboring Roman Catholic and United Church seminaries. Concordia, once the nation's largest Lutheran seminary, has 193 students.

The Chicago meeting was called by an ad hoc committee led by Dr. Spitz, former executive of the Lutheran Council in the U.S. and now a Manhasset pastor, and the Rev. Omar Stuenkel, a Mabel Heights, Ohio, pastor.

Participants representing 48 congregations in 22 states emphasized they did not want to become another splinter denomination, and that they regard the new organization only as a possible stepping-stone to affiliation with two other major Lutheran bodies in a long-sought merger of them.

They are the 3 million-member Lutheran Church in America and the 2.5 million-member American Lutheran Church. Altogether, there are close to 9 million Lutherans in the country.

Unification efforts between them, however, have been stalled by the controversy in the Missouri Synod branch.

The Chicago meeting said in a resolution that moderate objectives such as evangelical church government and ecumenical participation, especially for inter-Lutheran unity, are "seriously impeded" by the present Missouri Synod administration.

However, activation of the new structure was made contingent on developments in the denomination, pending its governing convention next July.

"The critical issue is how we are going to live with our differences, whether we are to deal with them fraternally in mutual respect or whether a monolithic view is to be imposed from the top and by legislation, which represents a radical shift away from historic Lutheran processes," Dr. Spitz says.

The church administration insists on a literal view of some scriptural stories which moderates consider parables whose truth is in the symbolic meaning.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Guidelines For Babysitters

Dear Ann Landers. Please help a group of sincere, conscientious young people who are being taken advantage of. I refer to the babysitters across the country.

Here are our major complaints—each and every one out of my own experience—and there are more like me.

1. Wages. We know times are hard. But inflation has hit us the same as everyone else. A dollar doesn't buy what it once did. Instead of getting raises, we are asked to take cuts because "money is tight." If people can spend money to go out, they should be able to pay a sitter.

2. Not getting paid. Sometimes they say, "We'll pay you next time," and then they "forget." The girl hates to ask for it, so she has worked a whole evening for nothing.

3. Late, late hours. They say they'll be home at a certain time, and come in three hours later. This makes it bad when you have school the next day.

4. Adding other people's children to the job. I've had as many as four extra kids to sit for which means extra work. No additional pay, of course.

5. Last-minute cancellations: After having refused two other dates, I've been cancelled with half an hour's notice. This costs me money.

6. Maid Service expected. Some people ask if you'd mind doing a few dishes, and when you go into the kitchen every dish and pot and pan in the house is in the sink.

7. Some people come from a party cockeyed drunk and we have to let them drive us home.

Thanks, Ann, for your help.—Babysitters Anonymous

Dear Babysitters: I have dealt with various aspects of your problems, but now that you have listed several complaints, I'll deal with them all at once, and I hope you girls out there will clip this column and use it as a guide.

Most of your problems result from your failure to establish guidelines and stick to them. If a girl takes her job seriously she should have, in advance, an understanding with her boss on all the issues raised in your letter. If the woman does not live up to her word, the girl should not sit for her again.

1. Wages. Establish your fee and stick to it.

2. If you do not get paid the night you sit, remind the woman the next time she calls that you didn't get paid for last time and that you'll be expecting double money, so please have both fees ready.

3. If the couple comes in

ANN LANDERS

"three hours late" on a school night more than twice, don't sit for them again. They are not reliable people.

4. Make it plain when you talk price that the fee includes her children only and extra children mean extra money.

5. Have an understanding in advance that unless you get three days notice for a weekend cancellation, the woman will have to pay you half of a normal night's sitting fee.

6. If you don't want to do dishes, say so. Tell her you have homework to do—which of course you have.

7. Never get into a car with anyone who is "cockeyed drunk." Phone your parents or take a taxi and inform the people that the taxi is on them.

East overtook West's king of clubs with the ace and continued with the queen and 10. South now had noted the fall of the jack from West, ruffed high and led a heart to dummy's king. East took his ace and returned a heart to put South back on lead. South proceeded to draw trumps with three leads and plunk his jack of diamonds on the table. East followed. South went right up with dummy's ace, picked up East's singleton king and claimed the rest of the tricks.

"Hold your cards back," growled West.

"I didn't see his hand, I didn't have to," said South. "I was in the unfortunate position of having two chances to make my contract — slim and none. I took the slim chance and it materialized."

What South meant was that there was no chance for West to hold the king of diamonds. He had passed his partner's opening club bid and had already shown up with the king-jack of that suit.

With another king he would surely have responded. Hence the diamond finesse represented no chance. The play of the ace allowed for the slim chance that East would hold the singleton king.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20) You can make this day stand out through sturdy effort or let it pass unprofitably through sheer indifference. Nothing will stand still. So — it's up to you!

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21) Fine aspects give a lift to your personality, help you to spur activities to a lively pace. It's a day for achievement. Just one admonition: Be careful in whom you confide.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) If someone suggests a new idea, give it a chance — but not at the cost of reputation or at the expense of valuable time. Head up!

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) Splendid planetary influences. Especially favored: creativity, originality, any activity which involves dealing with the public.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23) You may be surprised at the lack of opposition in areas where you expected it. Use this advantage to achieve in some special way that will strengthen your hand.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) Don't take things for granted. Make sure! Neither be pessimistic nor follow blind optimism. Day calls for exceptionally good judgment.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) Strike a good balance in all things; distinguish carefully between what's substantial and what's mere "glitter." The latter could prove disappointing.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) A good day for planning long-range projects. Planets, in auspicious position, promise advancement if you are your innately resourceful and ambitious self.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) Rewards will gratify if you handle the needs of this day astutely — and yourself with discipline. Avoid time-wasters and eliminate all nonessentials from your schedule.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Good stellar influences govern new projects as well as everyday routine. Cooperate with those who have both know-how and integrity. An excellent day for doing well.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A new light thrown upon certain situations should prime you for fine advantages in the office. MAKE yourself work for attainment which requires more than usual vigor. You can do it!

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) If you want to give a first-rate performance now, you will have to be even more dextrous than usual. Good planetary influences, but your cooperation needed.

DECATUR — The historical Newton home in Decatur will be open for tours Sunday afternoons from 1 to 4:30 p.m., it has been announced by the Cass County Historical Commission.

The house is furnished with appropriate period pieces, most of which are donated or loaned

More than one hundred rare diseases have been identified in newborn infants.

These so-called "metabolic disorders" are now being traced to some chemical imbalance while the unborn child is growing.

The heartbreak of congenital disorders is immense. To combat these defects scientists all over the world are attempting to recognize and treat inherited metabolic disorders while the unborn child is in the mother's womb.

One such defect makes it impossible for an infant to manufacture its own vitamin B 12. Now, it is possible to take a sample of the fluid that surrounds the unborn child, study it and treat it with massive doses of vitamin B 12. This insures a far greater possibility that the child will survive and flourish.

Such treatment for other congenital disorders is in progress.

Biofeedback is a complex technique for studying ordinary and extraordinary brain waves. Dr. William W. Finley, of The Children's Medical Center in Tulsa, Okla., has been using biofeedback to control uncontrolled movements that occur in children with cerebral palsy.

Cass Man Accused As Tape Bootlegger

CHICAGO — A Cass county, Mich., man arrested on a federal charge of violation of copyright laws, has been released on his own recognizance pending a preliminary hearing Wednesday, Feb. 21, in federal district court here, according to Chicago FBI agents.

Andrew Moore, 33, of 2123 East US-12 in Milton township in Cass county, just east of Niles, surrendered to FBI agents Thursday night. He had been named in a federal warrant charging him with violation of copyright laws in Illinois, an FBI spokesman said yesterday.

Moore's surrender came less than 12 hours after FBI agents and state police from the Niles, Mich., post confiscated some 20,000 bootleg eight-track stereo music tapes from the Milton township home.

The tapes, had they been sold to retail stores, would have been worth between $80,000 and $125,000, according to state police.

Seizure of the tapes from Moore's home was coordinated with arrests and seizures in other states and followed a raid on a warehouse in the Chicago area last week, police said.

Investigation of bootleg tape operations in the Midwest began a year ago, FBI agents said.

Taken along with the tapes from the Moore home was professional recording equipment, including a master and 11 slave units which permit 11 copies of the tape to be made simultaneously, police reported.

Officers said the copies could be sold in such a way to bypass payment of royalties to artists and recording companies.

Also seized at the Moore residence were several thousand illegal skyrocket fireworks valued at about $1,000, the FBI said.

Bobby Crim Urges Statewide Tax Plan

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A constitutional amendment combining a statewide property tax and personal income tax is the only fair way for the state to finance public schools, House Speaker Bobby Crim said today.

Only by moving away from dependence on the ability of local districts to raise funds through millage elections can Michigan be assured all children will have equal access to quality education, he said.

Individual districts could levy beyond a set statewide level only for special, additional "enrichment" programs, the Davison Democrat said.

He said he would move to get a constitutional amendment on the November, 1976, ballot.

Crim criticized the current so-called "equal yield" school financing plan as fostering inequities and proposed what he called a "progressive yield" plan until a constitutional amendment is adopted.

Under such a plan the state would match the first mills levied locally and move downward in yield as local millage goes up.

For example, a progressive yield plan might guarantee $50 per pupil per mill in state aid for the first ten mills a district levies, $40 for the next 10 mills; and $30 for the next five, six, or seven.

He criticized the "equal yield" plan because it relies on local property taxes as the basis for the amount of state money a local district gets.

Tying local effort to state payback maintains the disparity between rich and poor districts, Crim said.

Crim spoke at a conference of school boards and administrators at Michigan State University.

Niles Teen Gets 2-5 Year Term

An 18-year-old Niles man Friday was sentenced to prison for attempted breaking and entering at his grandfather's house.

Judge Julian Hughes of Berrien circuit court set a 2 to 5-year prison term for John Allen Bradshaw, of 902 North Red Bud trail.

He and two others pleaded guilty to attempted breaking and entering at the John W.

Bradshaw home, 115 Elizabeth street, Buchanan, on Nov. 18.

Judge Hughes Friday sent the other two to prison, too.

Rufus Perry, 23, of 117 Fulton street, Buchanan, received a 40-month to 5-year term, and Otis Williams, 21, of 126 Arctic street, Buchanan, a 2 to 5-year term.

In passing sentence on Perry, Hughes noted Perry had been sentenced earlier to 1 to 5 years in prison, also for attempted breaking and entering.

Hughes yesterday also placed Edwin Stern, 33, of South M-140, Watervliet, on five years probation, and assessed fine and costs of $400 for larceny in a building. Stern was accused of stealing items from a tool crib at the Donald C. Cook nuclear plant in Lake township on Dec. 3, 1973.

Sewage Plant Will Have Open House

COLOMA — Members of the Paw Paw Lake Area Planning commission and Paw Paw Lake sewage operating board have set Saturday and Sunday, April 26-27, as dates for the open house of the $2.6 million sewage treatment plant.

The plant, located off DeField road, serves the cities and townships of Coloma and Watervliet and is part of a $12 million sewage treatment system for the four-governmental area.

The two bodies set open house hours at 1 to 5 p.m.

Planning commission members also tabled payment of a bill from the sewage system's engineering firm of Ayers, Lewis, Norris and May of Ann Arbor, in the amount of $22,507 for a training manual for training plant personnel. Commission Chairman Fred Munchow said the estimated price had been $20,000.

An election of officers for 1975 found all incumbents re-elected, including Munchow, chairman; Robert Curtis, vice chairman; and Rodney Krieger, secretary-treasurer.

It Was An Expensive Valentine

EASTMEADOW, N.Y. (AP) — Lucille DeGregoria, 43, got Valentine's Day flowers, but they carried a $5,100 price tag.

Two bogus bouquet bearers rang the door bell Friday, handed her the flowers and after producing a silver-plated gun made off with $5,100 in cash in the house.

Mrs. DeGregoria said she had been expecting flowers because it was her husband's way of remembering Valentine's Day.

Police said that the bandits had purchased the Valentine bait for $10 at a nearby florist.

"They even made me sign a receipt," said Mrs. DeGregoria.

Watervliet Has Undeveloped Lots For Sale

WATERVLIIET — Watervliet city has a 127-lot undeveloped subdivision for sale to interested developers.

Donald Muth, city administrator, said the city hopes to sell the land for future home construction.

According to Muth, the subdivision purchase was completed this month from the Gordon Lewis estate.

The subdivision, north of Paw Paw avenue just within the west city limits, was purchased after the parcel was cleared from probate court where it had been tied up for several years, Muth said.

Governor Reappoints Wightman

LANSING — Gov. William Milliken has reappointed Walter W. Wightman of Fennville to the Central Michigan university board of trustees.

The governor also reappointed Katharine Hafstad of Harbor Springs to Central's governing board, and Ella Koeze Weed of Grand Rapids to the Grand Valley State college board of control. Richard DeVos of Grand Rapids was appointed to the Grand Valley board to replace L. William Seidman of Ada. All four terms will expire Dec. 31, 1982, and must be confirmed by the state senate.

Wightman, one of the original eight trustees named to Central's board in 1964, was elected chairman of the governing body in 1973.

He is a life-long resident of the Fennville area and a former president of the Michigan Farm Bureau. He attended Albion college and Michigan State university.

Letters From Readers

children the evils of these drugs and sex.

Will giving kids some freedom of expression in the open classroom promote violence? Yes, we know it will, as there is a lack of discipline in the schools now. How are kids going to learn anything if they are not taught what to learn?

In open classrooms the kids are left to follow whatever whims or moods happen to strike them at the moment, if it happens to be looking at pictures in a book or just doing nothing.

Movies and discussions in our schools should be kept to the subjects that should be taught and not about homo-sexuals, drugs, and other trash. An occasional good film for entertainment is not objectionable.

Finally, parents do have the right to control what their children are taught in the schools, that we pay for.

Let our children grow up as we would have them, not as someone else would have them.

PRO-ABORTIONISTS 'NON-CHRISTIAN'

Editor,

I am giving great honor, and respect to the letter that was in this paper Friday, Feb. 7 by Mrs. E. Lull, "VIEWS ON ABORTION." I sincerely hope all people that are against her solid and rock-solid statement did read and re-read this letter. It had all the facts, and proof that abortion is a sin.

I want to add that the law of the courts or the people that vote for Abortion are just as guilty of murder as Pilate when he delivered Our Savior Jesus Christ into the hands of wicked men to be crucified. The people who want to commit this act and vote to make it legal are nothing but a selfish non-Christian group of people.

Jesus said "If any man follow me let him deny himself, and take up his Cross and come after me." Matt. 16:24.

So all I want to tell to these young and adult females that believe this is a right act, they are making God's word a lie. Get out of self, and learn to bear your burdens.

BRIDGMAN MOTHER ANTI-ABORTION

Editor,

I would like to give credit to Mrs. Wright, and the many other people who have taken the courage to write about their stand in support of the unborn child.

I am a Catholic and very proud of it! I am glad we, and many others outside our faith, still believe in the fifth commandment, and call a spade, (or a scalpel) a scalpel! My God, in his great mercy, forgive us for what we are doing!

Thousands of babies are killed every day, and we stand by nonchalant and let it go on, as it were unnoticed. But when one is found in a garbage can, then we make this great to-do-about it! Like the trial that has to do been going on, where the baby may have been kept alive. There are many that whimper after they are pulled from the mother and then left in cans to stay until the whimpering ceases. (Unless they are taken piece by piece with the more "humane" suction method.)

No wonder the nurses cannot stomach it for long, and the doctors have to turn to drugs to help quiet their God given conscience.

I'm wondering too why we use to carry "babies" and now we are told it is a "fetus". What are we giving birth to, pray tell us!

Years ago, I took my three little girls up town, (not an easy feat). They were not what you would call well-behaved-children. But I shall never forget, before I reached home, I had three perfect strangers come to me and tell me how sorry they were, now that it was too late, that they only raised one child!

Now our five girls are grown up, and how wonderful it is to hear their voices of concerns or of joy (or sorrow) or to receive a quick written note, or a visit, and the joys of another generation coming to life before our eyes!

We must shoulder the blame of our children "shacking up" and forming clubs to have no children, and all the other wild things taking place before our very eyes, while we act as though there is nothing wrong going on.

It is all there in the Ten Commandments, if we only would turn back to them!

Mrs. Pauline Pritschet
Bridgman.

THIS MIGHT HAPPEN!

Editor,

Once there was a farmer who raised fine beef cattle. His steaks and roasts and hamburger were tasty and nourishing, and customers readily paid him a fair price for his product.

Then one day the Wizards in Washington hit upon the idea that not all of the food we eat is nourishing, or so nourishing that it leaves no residue.

So they theorized for a while and concluded that it would be in the best interest of our Nation to decree an increasing nutritional value in all basic food stuffs. They specified that each year the food should be improved in such a way that in a 10 year span the use of food would decrease the need for sanitary sewers by 90%, with an ultimate goal of complete elimination of a sanitary system.

In spite of much grumbling of the farmers and food processors, who first claimed it couldn't be done, they concocted with much effort techniques and additives which changed the products to meet the government specifications each year.

It turned out to be a burden for the customer, too, for cooking instructions were more specific and detailed. No longer could a steak be placed on a grill and done to a medium rare. Instead it had to be marinated for 48 hours in an obnoxious solution and then steamed under pressure for six hours. The worst of it was that it tasted vile.

But it did the trick — it was nearly pure nutrition, leaving as waste product only carbon dioxide and practically pure water. Thus it eliminated the need for septic tanks and sewage disposal systems. Our Nation should be happy!

It wasn't, naturally, for the price of these super-efficient foods, these no-deposit, no-return steaks, had skyrocketed to $15 a pound. Nobody wanted to pay the price, even if they had tasted good. And they tasted awful.

So the farmer couldn't sell his beef any more, for no one wanted to buy it — at any price.

Oh, they tried all kinds of promotional gimmicks — first free recipe books, then cash rebates — but the customers simply were unmoved and stubbornly refused to buy the national advantage of the super-efficient foods, with its cumbersome preparation and horrible taste.

People simply went on a liquid diet and equipped themselves with portable P-filters to stay within the anti-pollution law. Seems there is always a way to get around the brainstorms of the Wizards of Washington, once an aroused people puts its mind to it!

And the farmer? He just drank himself to death!

GOP Expected To Reject Closed Primary Elections

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Party politics and prison reform head the agenda this weekend when the Michigan Republican party gathers in Grand Rapids to choose state and district leaders.

State party Chairman William McLaughlin is expected to win easy re-election to his post. Republicans are expected to reject closed primary elections, which would force voters to register by party allegiance and prohibit crossing over to vote in the other party's primary.

Janitor Wins $200,000

WYOMING, Mich. (AP) — A janitor who is losing his job with an auto parts firm when it goes out of business in two weeks won the $200,000 top prize Monday in the Michigan Lottery.

Wilburn Boyd, 61, of St. Clair Shores said immediately after winning, "I want to go back to Tennessee and see my mother."

The Cookeville, Tenn., native, who has lived in Michigan since 1942, said he has been working as a janitor at the Houdilla Industry plant in Detroit because, "Right now, with them closing down, you have to take whatever you can get."

Boyd said he didn't have "very much" coming to him from the firm in the way of a pension. His wife, Mariah, said of the winnings, "We're going to enjoy it but we don't plan to waste it."

The Boyds said they will use the winnings to travel, and ultimately Boyd said he'd like "to get a little place somewhere."

Ralph Tiberg, 67, of Calumet, a retiree from the Burroughs Corp. in Detroit, won $50,000 as the runner up and proclaimed himself "well-satisfied."

The $25,000 prize went to Joseph Horan, a single machine operator from Pontiac.

Winners of $10,000 each were Francis Benesh, 57, of Menominee, who operates his own electrical firm; Bernard Butler, a 53-year-old foreman at Grand Rapids Cypsum Co., and Sue Cales, 38, of Pinckney, a production worker with a disabled husband.

The Democratic state convention last month endorsed the idea, which would have to pass the legislature before taking effect.

GOP officials also predicted easy approval of a proposal by Oakland County Prosecutor Brooks Patterson to eliminate "good time" for prisoners convicted of violent crimes.

State law rewards prisoners for good behavior by allowing parole boards to consider their release before they serve a minimum sentence ordered in court.

State corrections officials say the proposal, if enacted into law, would increase the state's prison population from 9,000 to 15,000.

The convention comes at a time when Michigan Republicans are concerned about the viability of their party at the polls.

Party officials say a recent Market Opinion Research poll indicates that unless the economy rebounds earlier than expected, the GOP could be racked with 1976 losses from President Ford on down in Michigan.

Only 16 per cent of the voters surveyed identified themselves as Republicans in Michigan.

"You just can't go out and sell yourself as a Republican," conceded state Senate Republican Leader Robert Davis of Gaylord.

Young GOP insurgents, headed by state Reps. John Engle of Mount Pleasant and Dan Angel of Marshall, mounted a feeble effort to challenge McLaughlin.

They took their grievances to a meeting at Gov. Milliken's house last month and won a pledge of more personal involvement from Milliken and a committee to study the complaints.

Block Parents Provide Refuge For Children

Posters of a dark house on an orange field displayed in windows of St. Joseph homes signal a safe haven for Washington school students.

A block parent program begun after an attack on a youngster several weeks ago has 68 homes registered as havens, said Mrs. Harold E. Trowe, chairman. The organizer is the Washington school Parent Teacher organization.

Children have been instructed to note where block parents are and turn to them in the event they are accosted by strangers.

The "parents" are to call police in cases of a crime by an adult against a child, and call the school in the event of a lost child.

Homes also are a refuge for children. Mrs. Trowe said, in the event of illness or accident, bullies, vicious dogs or quick, severe storms.

SJ Elks Present Books

As part of their Americanism program, St. Joseph Elks Lodge No. 541 has donated a two-volume book set titled "200 Years" to four area high school libraries.

The presentation is in commemoration of the nation's bicentennial celebration, Don Krajecki, exalted exalted ruler said. Krajecki added: "As Elks, we are proud to be Americans and we appreciate this opportunity to provide the youth of our community with these excellent books from which they may gain a better understanding of our country and its heritage."

Receiving the books were representatives of the faculty and student bodies of Lake Michigan Catholic High school; St. Joseph High School; Michigan Lutheran High school and Lakeshore High school. Making the presentations were Krajecki and Walt Hinkle, Americanism chairman of the lodge.

Alleged 'Hit Man' Will Stand Trial

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — A district court judge Friday ordered a reputed drug underworld hired assassin to stand trial here on charges of carrying a concealed weapon and possession of heroin.

At the same time Judge Alice Gilbert reduced Chester Wheeler Campbell's bond from $1 million to $400,000. Campbell, 44, charged with three counts of carrying a concealed weapon and one count of heroin possession, was described by Oakland County Assistant Prosecutor Richard Thompson as a "hit man" after authorities searched through notebooks and documents found in Campbell's car Thursday. Campbell had been sought by law enforcement officers for two years since his indictment as a participant in the Detroit Police 10th Precinct drug conspiracy case. Authorities arrested Campbell after they spotted a gun in his car following a near-accident with a Keego Harbor squad car. Authorities said the 29 notebooks found in the car contained names of high police officials, known drug figures and at least 10 persons authorities say were slain in gangland-style executions.

Many of the names are connected to the 10th Precinct drug trial, in which both drug figures and police officers are charged with conspiracy, officials said. The notebooks also contained grand jury testimony, court documents, high-level and confidential police memoranda, and personal information concerning witnesses in the case. Wiley Reed, the star witness in the case, identified Campbell as a hit man in grand jury testimony. When Campbell's car was searched, police found two pistols, a rifle, a sawed-off shotgun, boxes of ammunition and a small quantity of heroin. Authorities said Campbell served 13 years in prison on a murder conviction.

DETROIT (AP) — The city council agreed Friday to seek a one-half per cent increase in Detroit's city income tax for non-residents. The new levy would total one per cent. Sprinklers May Have Averted Fire

By TERRY RYAN
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "I'd sleep a lot better at night if the World Trade Center had sprinklers," Fire Commissioner John O'Hagan said last week.

Automatic sprinkler systems are not mandatory under the city fire codes. When flames broke out in the center's 110-story north tower at midnight Thursday, there were no sprinklers to help contain the blaze. It spread to parts of six floors, but no one was seriously injured.

Sprinkler systems — the best way to save lives in high-rise building fires, according to fire officials — now are required in some states. They are also being installed in some new buildings, even where regulations do not require them.

Nationwide attention first was drawn to the dangers of high-rise fires in November 1972. Live television cameras were on when four women jumped to their deaths as fire swept the upper stories of a 17-story building in New Orleans.

The fire could have been stopped if a water sprinkler system had been installed in the building, said the head of a presidential commission on fire protection.

Ohio already had a law requiring sprinklers in new high-rise buildings. Maryland, Massachusetts and California since have passed similar laws.

"The tendency now is to require sprinklers," said Robert Hodnett, fire protection engineer with the National Fire Protection Association. "It is probably the single best means of fire protection. More and more states and municipalities are making it mandatory."

There are 40,000 sprinklers in the 110-story Sears Towers in Chicago, the world's tallest building at 1,450 feet. There is no regulation requiring them, but $4 million was spent to install the sprinklers.

The building also has a computerized smoke detection system, water pumps and emergency power generators which could supower, if necessary, to certain elevators.

Builders and developers often have objected to the extra costs of installing sprinklers.

The chief of Chicago's Fire Prevention Bureau, Francis Murphy, said during construction of the Sears Tower trade-offs were made, where reasonable, to lessen costs in one area so as to ease the sprinkler costs.

"There are certain areas where you can trade off and make it worthwhile without jeopardizing the people and structure," said Murphy. "If you have 100 per cent sprinklers, you can go with lighter construction all around."

"In my estimation, sprinklers are the answer," he added.

Even though sprinklers are not required in Chicago, three or four high rises now under construction in the city will have them, Murphy said.

The three-alarm fire in New York's World Trade Center broke out on the 11th floor of the center's 1,353-foot north tower and spread to parts of six floors through electrical and communications wiring ducts. Officials said the fire was caused by electrical wiring.

New York City's fire codes now give builders an option of installing sprinklers or limiting open space to a maximum of 7,500 square feet.

Six persons have died in office tower fires in New York since 1970, but O'Hagan said there is little chance of a fire turning into a holocaust such as that depicted in the current movie "Towering Inferno."

In San Francisco, where the movie was filmed, there are sprinklers on every floor of the Transamerica building, the city's tallest structure.

Police Capture Man Wanted In Shooting Of 5

By CHERYL L. DEBES
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — A man wanted in the shootings of five suburban Chicago policemen was captured after a 15-minute shootout on the city's South Side, officials said.

Timothy D. Johnson, 36, of Harvey was listed in fair condition today at a local hospital from a gunshot wound in the left knee and compound fractures he suffered Friday night in an attempt to flee from about 60 police officers, said Asst. Supt. William Keating of the Chicago Police Department.

Johnson was charged early today with four counts of attempted murder; three counts of aggravated battery and one count of aggravated assault for shooting at police Friday night. Additionally, he faced a federal charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution, and five counts of aggravated battery with intent to commit murder for his alleged role in shooting the five suburban policemen.

Two policemen suffered minor injuries in the shootout Friday night after Johnson fled from the apartment of a girl friend, Diana Hill, police said.

"There were a lot of shots being fired," said Officer D.V. Carter who helped subdue Johnson. "We saw him jump from a third-story window. He climbed over a barbed-wire fence and slipped and fell. He was reaching for another pistol when we got the handcuffs on him."

Carter said Johnson was carrying a rifle and a pistol when he was captured after police received a tip that led to the arrest.

Police launched a massive manhunt for Johnson in the Chicago area after a shooting spree Thursday morning which left five suburban policemen wounded, two of them critically.

The incident began when a motorist identified as Johnson was stopped for a traffic violation in the southern suburb of Harvey, police said.

When Harvey Patrolman Frank Maslanka, 24, attempted to apprehend the motorist, he was shot in the head. The motorist fled, officials said.

Another policeman, who found Maslanka lying in the street, said the wounded officer told him, "Tim Johnson shot me." Maslanka remained in critical condition Friday.

Harvey Police Chief Lawrence Lower said Johnson reportedly had a grudge against Maslanka, who had arrested him last May on narcotics and firearms charges. Those charges were later dismissed.

Four of the six policemen who later went to the home of Johnson's sister were wounded in a gunfight. A man identified as Johnson fired shots through the front door and windows and escaped through an alley, police said.

One of the injured officers, Eugene Wojtowicz, 44, remained in critical condition with a stomach wound; hospital officials said.

Price Increase Slowing Down

mercant banks, lowered their prime lending rates one-quarter point to 8.75 per cent.

One piece of unfavorable economic news was a larger deficit in the balance of payments during the fourth quarter. The Commerce Department announced a $4.1 billion deficit in the final three months of 1974 and an $8 billion deficit for the year.

In other economic developments:

- The Association of American Railroads said the nation's railroads laid off more than 32,000 workers in December and January. The association said the decline was caused by the current recession and not by any diversion of traffic to other forms of transportation.
- Economist William A. Jordan told a Senate subcommittee in Boston that airline passengers may be paying as much as $3.5 billion a year for federal regulation of interstate airline traffic.
- The Agriculture Department's outlook board said consumers spent a record $164.6 billion for food last year, up 14.6 per cent from 1973.
- The board said most of the 1974 food cost increase came because crop-related products were much more expensive. In 1973, higher prices of animal products, mainly meat, led the way.
- Last year, for example, retail prices of sugar and other sweets jumped 52 per cent from 1973. Fats and oils were up 42 per cent, and cereal and bakery goods averaged 30 per cent higher. Fruits and vegetables were up 18 per cent, with most of the gain attributable to processed goods.
- Dairy product prices were up 19 per cent from 1973, and fishery products gained 15 per cent. Beef prices rose 3 per cent on the average for the entire year while pork declined slightly. Poultry prices dropped 5 per cent.

Teachers Were Not At Meeting

BERRIEN SPRINGS — No teachers were present during a private meeting of eight parents and the Berrien Springs school board Thursday night, prior to the board's appointment of Jon Schuster as new Berrien Springs school superintendent, according to Mrs. Mae Taiclet, president of the Berrien Springs Education association.

It was incorrectly reported in this newspaper Friday that teachers also attended the private session. Mrs. Taiclet said teachers were at the school board meeting, but were not invited into the private meeting.

eight o'clock."

Lady Wodehouse, who will be 90 in May, was prostrated by her husband's death and put to bed with sedatives.

Funeral plans were held in abeyance pending the arrival from London of her grandchildren, who sprang from a previous marriage.

Although Bertie Wooster, Aunt Agatha and other characters from the Jeeves novels were indelibly associated with Wodehouse in the public mind, millions have hummed and sung of "Bill" without knowing that Wodehouse wrote the lyrics to the Jerome Kern hit in "Show Boat."

Wodehouse had, one clear philosophy that inspired his writing.

"I like to make people feel good," he said in a recent conversation. "And they seem to like that. I don't have any deep theories about humor: I think the purpose of humor is to make people laugh."

A star cricketer at Dulwich College, London, Wodehouse became an avid baseball fan soon after his arrival in America in 1903.

"Cricket's not a patch on baseball," he used to say.

Although his knighthood brought out every bit of latent Englishness in this descendant of Yorkshire gentry, he said recently: "I came to America, my dream country, at the turn of the century. I've never really looked back."

LONDON (AP) — Sir Julian Huxley, distinguished British biologist and author, died Friday night at his London home at the age of 87.

The family announced his death today.

Sir Julian was the older brother of novelist Aldous Huxley, who died in 1963.

Grandson of the Victorian biologist Thomas Huxley, a champion of Darwinism, Sir Julian was born June 22, 1887. He was the eldest son of schoolmaster and editor Leonard Huxley.

Sir Julian grew up in an atmosphere of science and culture and his later writings reflected an enormous range of interests from poetry, religion and philosophy to zoology and cancer research.

there about a year.

"We don't know anything about him," the manager said. "He never said anything. We run a transient business here and we don't get involved with the personal lives of our customers."

B.R. "Frenchy" LaBlanc, a neighbor of Loges on the second floor of the hotel, said Loges seldom drank but always carried a gun.

"He carried this gun everywhere, but he was quiet and never bothered anybody," LaBlanc said.

But another neighbor said, "I've been telling everybody, this guy's nuts and he's got a carbine, but nobody cared."

Kovacevic cared but says now he regrets telephoning police.

"I wish I hadn't reported it," he said. "I feel bad ... I feel like I did it."

Paw Paw Election Has 4 Contenders

PAW PAW — Four Republicans will be contending for nomination to three Paw Paw village trustee positions in Monday's primary election.

The incumbents include: Dalton Rumsey, 45, of 611 North, a building contractor. He and his wife, Wilma, have five children.

Charles Smith, 43, of 708 Hazen, manager of a paint store in Kalamazoo. He and his wife, JoAnn, have three children.

Fritz Foxy, 46, of 423 Miller, is employed at Warner Supply of Paw Paw. He and his wife, Avis, have two children.

Police Roundup Officers Hunting Property Owner

Benton Harbor police said they're looking for the owner of a portable television set, stereo set and tape player confiscated from three boys on a city street last night.

The boys, age 14 and 15 and all of Benton Harbor, were reported released to their parents pending further investigation. The boys gave no statements, and officers said they were unable to locate any owner of the equipment. A search of the area did not uncover any burglaries, officers stated.

A citizen notified police three boys were carrying the items on Clay, near Ogden. The boys were spotted by officers walking south on Ogden, near Empire.

Two of the boys were carrying a long, box-like object, while the third was "staggering" under the weight of a square object he was carrying, police said.

As officers approached, the objects were put down and the boys started to run. They were apprehended.

The case remains under investigation.

A Benton Harbor man was arrested Friday night, shortly after a woman, also of Benton Harbor, reported the theft of $143 cash from a wallet in her home.

Police were notified of the theft at 9:06 p.m. by Gloria Webb, who said the wallet was in her apartment at 578 Green.

A description of a man was provided and the arrest was made. Booked on a charge of larceny from a building was Willie Frank Glover, 31, of apartment 1, 578 Green, Benton Harbor. Police said some $95 was confiscated. The arrest was made outside a St. Joseph bar, police indicated.

Congressman Dies In Plane Crash

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — U.S. Rep. Jerry Pettis, killed when his single-engine plane crashed near here, excelled in many fields and brought his knowledge to Congress, President Ford says.

The five-term congressman and veteran pilot died Friday when his plane went down in the San Bernardino Mountains. He was alone in the craft.

The President said Pettis "excelled as a rancher, teacher, aviator, religious leader and businessman. Jerry brought the insights he gained in these various fields to Congress and his position of leadership among House Republicans."

The California congressman was the third-ranking Republican member of the House Ways and Means Committee and deputy Republican whip.

"The plane crash cut off a brilliant career in a tragic and untimely way," said Los Angeles County Supervisor James Hayes, a close friend of the 58-year-old Pettis. "We in California and this nation have lost one of the ablest members of Congress."

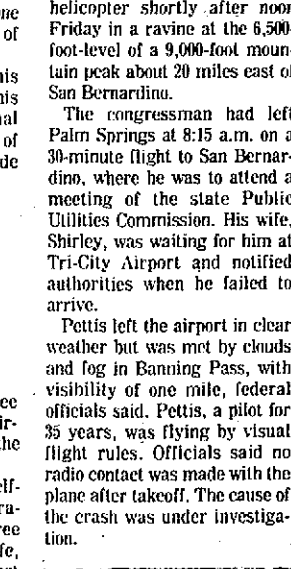

Pettis frequently used his plane to visit constituents in his far-flung 33rd Congressional District, which covers most of San Bernardino and Riverside counties.

Pettis' Beechcraft Bonanza was spotted by a sheriff's helicopter shortly after noon Friday in a ravine at the 6,500-foot level of a 9,000-foot mountain peak about 20 miles east of San Bernardino.

The congressman had left Palm Springs at 8:15 a.m. on a 30-minute flight to San Bernardino, where he was to attend a meeting of the state Public Utilities Commission. His wife, Shirley, was waiting for him at Tri-City Airport and notified authorities when he failed to arrive.

Pettis left the airport in clear weather but was met by clouds and fog in Banning Pass, with visibility of one mile, federal officials said. Pettis, a pilot for 35 years, was flying by visual flight rules. Officials said no radio contact was made with the plane after takeoff. The cause of the crash was under investigation.

Aged Niles Man County's Third Traffic Fatality

NILES — A 79-year-old Niles man died when he drove his auto into the path of a semi-trailer truck south of here on US-31 last night, Niles township police said.

Police said Willis Welcome Low, 2615 US-31 North, Niles, was pronounced dead on arrival at Niles Pawating hospital from injuries received in the 6:27 p.m. crash.

Police said reports from witnesses indicated Willis was headed west on Ontario road when he apparently passed on the right an auto stopped at the US-31 intersection and drove across the highway into the path of the truck.

Truck driver Robert J. Thornton, 56, 6441 Friar Tuck, Stevensville, told officers he was unable to stop in time to avoid hitting the vehicle. Police said Thornton was treated at Pawating hospital for minor injuries and later released.

The death was the third traffic fatality in Berrien county in 1975.

Police said no charges have been filed and that the accident is still under investigation.

Firemen Rescue BH Man

Benton Harbor firemen Friday rescued Elmer Fitzgerald, 63, from the second story bedroom, during a fire in his apartment in the city's public housing project at 722 East Vineyard.

Fitzgerald was helped out a window and carried down a ladder, firemen said. He was treated for smoke inhalation and released from Mercy hospital.

The fire, reported at 9:43 a.m., occurred in the first floor area of the two-level apartment. Firemen said Fitzgerald attempted to escape down the stairs, but was driven back by smoke.

Fitzgerald reportedly shares the apartment with his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fitzgerald, but was alone at the time.

The fire was confined to a sofa, table and chairs, and quickly doused. The cause has not been determined, firemen said.

Rate Increase Approved

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Southern Rural Electric Cooperative has been granted a rate increase that will increase its annual revenues by 37.5 per cent.

The Michigan Public Service Commission, which announced its approval of the increase Friday, said the Adrian cooperative will raise an extra $231,564 annually. The cooperative said it needed the additional revenues to meet increased demands for electric energy and increased costs of service due to increases in wholesale power costs, wages, salaries, taxes and the price of materials and supplies.

GOP Senate Candidate Beating His Drums Early

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Henry Jackson and Morris Udall have nothing on Deane Baker.

While the former are already running for the U.S. presidency, Baker is testing the waters for a U.S. Senate race still nearly two years away.

The University of Michigan regent circulated among delegates at the Republican State convention here Friday night and hosted a hospitality reception in the wee morning hours to spread his message.

Baker is the first of several Republicans expected to consider the nomination to challenge for Sen. Philip Hart's seat. Still up in the air is whether Hart himself will run again.

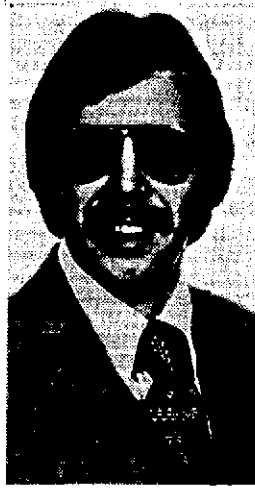

Most political observers here give Baker little chance of taking the nomination and consider his candidacy of minor importance. But, shaking hands and meeting the new faces in the party, he says he is "seriously considering" running and thinks he could win.

Baker's was the most overt effort to gain attention for a possible senate race, but also on hand were congressmen Philip Ruppe of Houghton and Marvin Esch of Ann Arbor, both frequently mentioned as possible candidates.

Interestingly, Baker lives in the heart of Esch's district and has the support of Peter B. Fletcher, a highway commission member and close ally of Gov. William Milliken. Observers are trying to determine the meaning of Fletcher's backing and its effect on Milliken's position regarding the contest.

Baker, 50, is a businessman in real estate and the construction of office and industrial buildings. While he's perhaps not the major senatorial possibility, at least he's the first, and thus drew some attention at what promised to be an uneventful convention.

Ford Widening Rebate Program

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. is extending its cash rebate program to cover small cars and some light trucks that are ordered anytime before Feb. 28, even if the cars are delivered after the deadline.

Previously Ford offered rebates of $200 to $500 only on cars delivered before the end of the month, which in effect meant shoppers had to buy a car in dealer stock.

Normally it takes at least a month to take delivery of a car ordered from the factory.

Ford's announcement on Friday came a day after the major auto companies reported that early February car sales were the lowest in 13 years for the period.

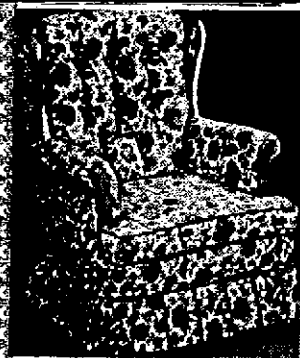

Ford disclosed earlier in the week that it has begun a massive sweepstakes program, offering potential car buyers a chance at up to $3,000 just by visiting a Ford dealer.

All four of the automakers' rebate plans, launched in mid-January to boost sagging sales, are scheduled to end Feb. 28.

Salvation Army Suffers

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Economic hard times are even forcing layoffs by the Salvation Army.

The charitable organization has laid off five of eight workers who sort donated clothing and furniture, and says jobs of 13 truck drivers are endangered due to lack of such donations.

"It's the first time I can recall something like this happening," said Brig. John Cheyne. "It has to be reflective of the economy. People are extremely cautious. They're holding on to things and stretching money as never before."

'Instruction' From Mao

TOKYO (AP) — Chairman Mao Tse-tung has issued a new "instruction" and the Chinese Communist party's publication of it is accompanied by warnings enemies in the ranks, a possible herald of another political upheaval in the making.

The lead item in the official Peking People's Daily reported that Mao personally issued the "important instruction."

It called for thorough understanding of the "dictatorship of the working class over the bourgeoisie." The paper recently devoted an entire front page to the theme.

Mao's "instruction" called on party committees and cadres at all levels to launch a campaign against "bad elements" in the party and population and against "bourgeois" waverers in the political, cultural, economic and ideological spheres.

Tigers Conquer Blahs, Trojans

Claim Outright LMAC Title

BY JIM DeLAND
Sports Editor

Benton Harbor's basketball team refused to succumb to a mild attack of the blahs Friday night.

Coach Earl McKee's surging Tigers spotted Traverse City a 16-12 lead during a lethargic first quarter but then arose to outscore the Trojans 68-35 the rest of the way to wrap up an undisputed Lake Michigan Athletic Conference championship with an 81-51 flourish.

"I hate to play these kind of games," McKee sighed after his multi-cylinder scoring machine had cranked out its 15th victory of the season.

"It's hard to get emotionally ready for a game like this against a team you've beaten once before and you're stumbling and fumbling around while they're all fired up."

"When you think about it, basketball is more and more a mental type of game."

Mental or not, the Tigers gave Traverse City plenty to think about on a long ride home last night by hitting over 50 per cent of their shots and dominating virtually every phase of play while putting four players in double figures.

Steady senior Mike Howard topped the list with 20 points and 10 rebounds and junior guard Ray Thompson came off the bench to score 17 points in the final three periods, including a burst of three straight baskets that drove the final nail in the Trojans' coffin during the fourth quarter.

Junior Bennie Bowers also turned in an effective performance in his first starting assignment and scored 14 points in the first three periods before being removed during the mop-up operations.

Edward Albert added 12 points and some nifty assists to complete a quartet that outscored the entire Traverse City team by 12 points.

All-state football star Mark Brammer did an effective job at center for the Trojans, hitting 6 of 9 shots and scoring 18 points. Forward John Hanson contributed 11 points more, but they received little assistance from the rest of their teammates.

The Trojans achieved success in the first quarter with an ultra-conservative style of offense and a 2-1-2 zone defense, but they were unable to maintain control of the game against the Tigers' pressing man-to-man defense in the remainder of the game.

"The first half was okay," said Trojan coach Joe LeMieux, "but in the second half we just went to pieces. I know we had to catch up, but we were just throwing the ball all over the place."

"What can I say? Harbor's a bleep — they're super shooters."

When it was all over, Benton Harbor had hit 33 of 65 shots for a 50.8 average with Howard sinking 8 of 12, Thompson 7 of 11, Bowers 6 of 10 and Albert 6 of 11.

Traverse City, in contrast, hit only 19 of 51 (.372), including a disastrous 11 of 38 (.289) during the final three quarters.

From the free throw line Benton Harbor converted 15 of 22 and Traverse City 13 of 19.

The victory gives the Tigers an 8-1 LMAC record and assures them of sole possession of the championship for the second straight year.

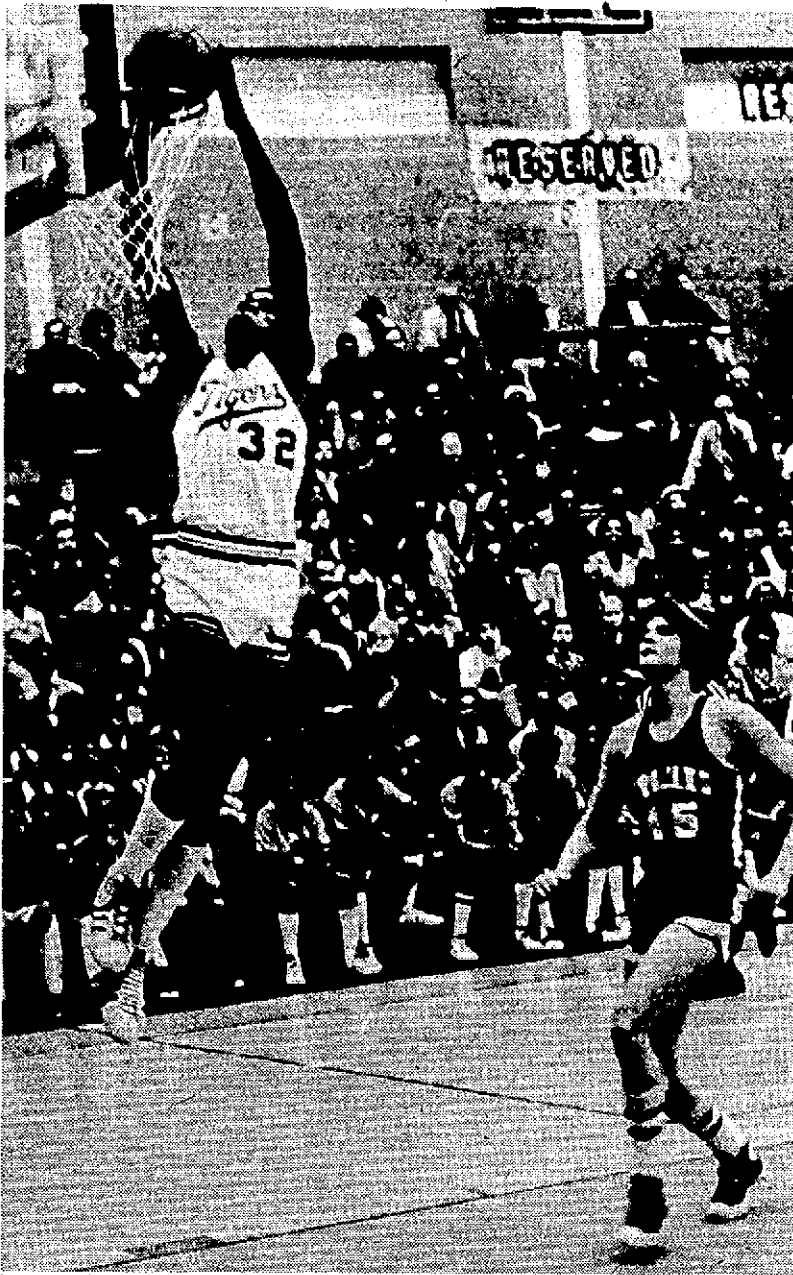

It also gives them a five-game winning streak and a 15-3 record.

"I'm more than pleased to be where we are...more than pleased," McKee smiled. "At the start of the season no way could we figure we could win 15 games."

"But I still think these kind of games are harder than games against a team with some kind of reputation."

The loss dooms Traverse City to the LMAC cellar with a 1-8 record and drops the Trojans to

Bear Win No Killing

St. Joe Slips Past Dowagiac, 51-50

By JOHN VANDEN HEED
Staff Sports Writer

There certainly wasn't another St. Valentine's Day massacre Friday night at the St. Joseph gym.

St. Joseph and Dowagiac did a lot of shooting but mostly fired blanks as the Bears bumped off the Chiefs 51-50 in a Big Six basketball game.

St. Joe posted its second lowest field goal percentage of the season at 32 per cent; Dowagiac hit just 39 per cent of its fielders and only 50 per cent at the free throw line, and both teams combined for just 11 points in the third quarter.

Only senior forward Mike Ryan was on target for St. Joseph. He took game scoring honors with 16 points while meshing eight of 15 shots.

Dave Macon led short-handed Dowagiac with 15 points, including making seven of 12 shots, while John Russom added 11 tallies.

The victory did leave St. Joseph with a chance for a Big Six title share. The Bears and Niles are both 6-3 in the Big Six while Loy Norrix leads at 7-2 with one game remaining.

Free throws and turnovers did Dowagiac in Friday night.

The Chiefs hit just 12 of 24 free throws while having what would have been the tying charity shot wiped out by a lane violation.

Dowagiac was also called for 25 turnovers, including numerous three-second violations, while St. Joseph had a season low 12 turnovers.

"Free throw it was," declared Dowagiac coach Norm Schuring. "I think free throws played a very critical role."

St. Joe meshed seven of 10, and Schuring expressed displeasure with an intentional foul call against the Chiefs which gave the Bears one of their charities.

"One thing I was a little upset about was that intentional foul," stated Schuring. "I thought that was a real key call."

Ed Owsianka was the victim of the foul and made one of two shots to give St. Joe what appeared to be a save 49-44 lead with 39 seconds remaining.

But Dowagiac made it a thriller on a four-point play with 23 seconds left by Lenny Stover. Stover hit a jumper and was fouled after the shot. He then added two free throws.

Mickey Ott then added two free throws at the 14-second mark which gave St. Joe a 51-48 lead and iced the Bears' 13th victory in 18 games. Dowagiac slipped to 2-7 in the league and 7-11 overall.

Dowagiac opened the game with a 4-0 lead as St. Joe was missing its first five shots, but the Bears came back to get the lead at 8-6 and remained on top the rest of the way...even though the final result was always in doubt.

St. Joe was on top 14-8 after the first quarter, 28-24 at half-time and 34-29 entering the last period. The Bears led by eight twice in the second quarter and at 48-40 late in the game for the biggest margins of the night.

MUSTANGS STOP HIGH-SCORING CASS

By JERRY DYKSTRA
Staff Sports Writer

THREE OAKS — River Valley's super-charged defense slowed the area's highest scoring machine to a mere crawl here Friday night.

The Mustangs used their traditionally tough man-to-man defense to check Cassopolis 63-57 in a battle of Class C powers.

The Valley win—its sixth in a row—knocked Cass out of a share of the Blossomland lead and put the Mustangs in ideal position to grab a title portion next week Friday.

Buchanan, which clinched a title share Friday with a 90-70 win over Brandywine, is now 9-2 while Valley and Cass are tied for second at 8-3. But the Mustangs host the Bucks next Friday in the final league contest of the season. Meanwhile, Cass, which entertains Lakeshore Friday, can make a three-way tie for the crown with a win over the Lancers and a Mustang triumph over Buchanan.

The Mustangs held the Rangers, averaging 80.3 points a game, to their second lowest point total of the season in halting their five-game winning string. Cass, ranked eighth in the latest Class C poll, never could get untracked as it hit only 39 per cent outcourt compared to a season's 50 per cent average. Valley's harassing defense forced 28 Cass turnovers, 18 in the first half, while holding all three Ranger double digit scorers below their averages.

Meanwhile, Mustang guards Mike White and Kevin O'Connell, in addition to their determined defensive efforts, sparked the offense with some crisp passes to the Valley front liners while easily cracking the occasional Cass press.

Mitch Coffman led the Mustangs with 18 points, Greg Johnson added 14, O'Connell 12 and White 11.

"I'm really pleased with our defense," smiled River Valley coach Jerry Schaffer. "We didn't give them anything. In fact I know we got more fast breaks than they did."

"Our guards were tough, Johnson did a big job of rebounding. North (Dave) did a good job on Walters (Roger) even though he got 24 points and Griffendorf (Kevin) helped out with Johnson out of there. But it was a team effort...I hate to single out any one player."

Cass, which had scored 65 or more points in seven straight games, had Walters, the area's top scorer, surpass the 1,000 career point plateau but that was little consolation to the frustrated Rangers. Walters ended with 24 points, 16 in the last half, Gary Young 13 and Mark Scott 10, his low of the year.

The Rangers never could quite recover from a sloppy first half in which they only put up the ball 25 times, mainly due to the 18 turnovers, were outrebounded by one, were called for goal-tending twice and generally lacked cohesive play.

"We just had a terrible game...they simply outthrusted us," stated Cass coach Bob Follett. "It was pretty much negative tonight. I don't know if they wanted it more than we did or not."

"They made us go out of our game plan. Plus we didn't get back on defense. We're disappointed but we're not out of it yet. We'll be rooting for Valley next week. I think they're due to beat Buchanan."

After five first-quarter deadlocks, Valley took control in the second quarter, outscoring the visitors 22-13 to gain a 35-23 half-time margin.

With Johnson on the bench with four fouls, Cass rallied to within 39-36 at 2:07 of the third period. But Valley refused to fold as it retaliated with a 10-2 advantage the final two minutes to again gain the upper hand, 49-38 going into the finale.

"I thought we controlled the game except for that lapse in the third quarter," observed Schaffer. "O'Connell really hit two key field goals then to shake us out of our doldrums. That put us back into control."

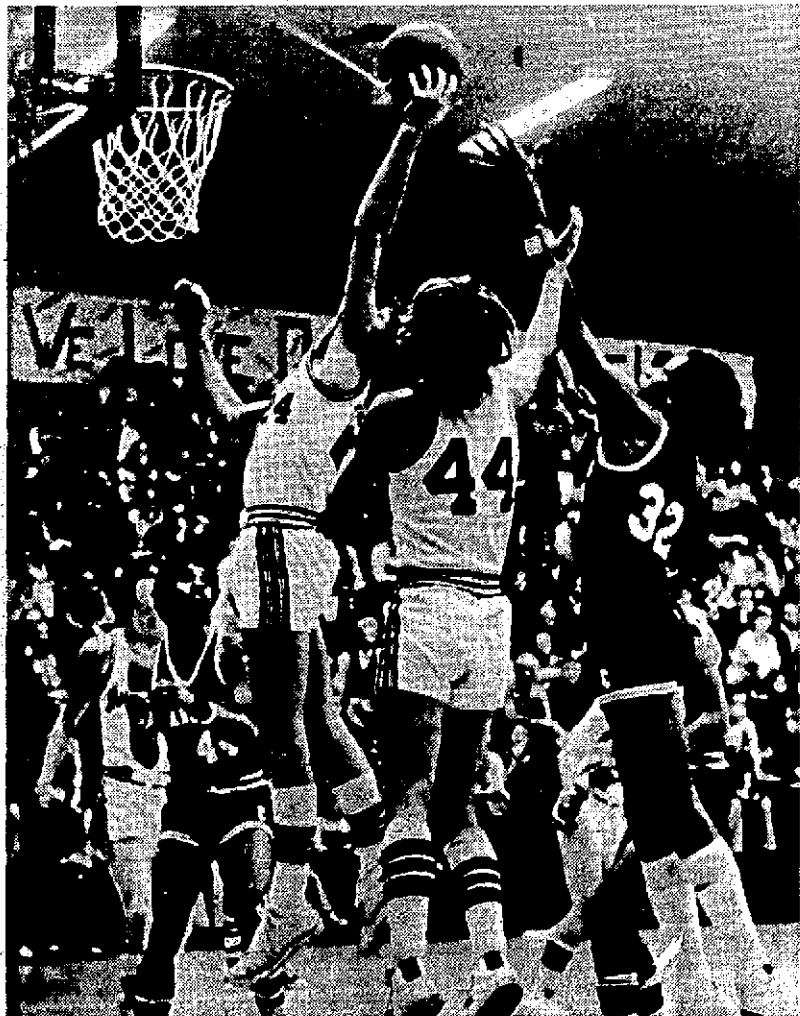

The Mustangs' cold free throw shooting put Cass closer in the final minute of the game but two foul shots by White with 10 seconds left clinched the win.

Valley hit five of five free throws the first three quarters but only four of 12 in the finale to finish at nine of 17. The Rangers were also off at seven of 15, including three of 10 in the fourth quarter.

Big Three Lift Paw Paw To Wolverine Championship

PAW PAW — Paw Paw's big three powered the Redskins to their first Wolverine championship in 12 seasons here Friday night.

Kevin Davis, Rick Mitchell and Ed Dow — who all stand among southwestern Michigan's scoring leaders — netted 26, 23 and 21, respectively, as Paw Paw edged South Haven in a 74-72 overtime thriller.

Paw Paw, which lost to South Haven 68-58 earlier in the season, is now 12-3 in the Wolverine and 15-3 overall.

"It's real great, of course," said Redskin coach Dave Anderson of the championship, "but it really shows how strong the Wolverine Conference is. We earned it...we worked hard for it."

Anderson said Davis played "his best ball game of the year" while meshing 12 of 14 shots, including three long bombs in the fourth quarter and the tying and go-ahead baskets in the overtime.

Dan Sherman got the basket that tied the game at 68-68 and forced the overtime with less than a minute to play. Paw Paw then made a turnover with 40 seconds left and the Rams stalled the ball for the last shot, with Chuck Knapp missing the potential winning shot before the buzzer.

South Haven went ahead 70-68 on a bucket by Tom Salasky in the overtime, before Davis' baskets put the Redskins on top for good.

But the Rams still had their chance in the dying seconds. After rebounding a missed free throw while trailing by the final 74-72 margin, they came down the floor with a three on one fast break. But Sherman was called for charging Mitchell with five seconds left in a call which was understandably controversial among Ram coaches, players and fans.

"My kids played real well," said South Haven coach M.H. White. "It was just a break here and there that beat us. It was what high school basketball should be."

Sherman finished with 16 points for South Haven while Stanley Harrell and Dave Heuermann added 14 apiece as the Rams slipped to 7-7 in the Wolverine and 8-9 overall.

Both teams shot exceptionally well, with Paw Paw swishing 30 of 55 (55 per cent) and South Haven 28 of 56 (50 per cent). Dow was also a deadeye for the Redskins with an eight for 14 night.

At the free-throw lines, the Redskins meshed 14 of 23 (61 per cent) and the Rams 16 of 28 (57 per cent).

South Haven had the rebounding edge by only 29 to 28.

South Haven opened the game with a 15-14 lead but the Rams made just three field goals the second quarter and fell behind 35-27 at halftime.

"They outplayed us the first half and that was the overall key," continued White.

Paw Paw got into foul trouble the first half with Cornell Gordon having four and Dow and Rob Nicey three apiece, so Anderson kept them all on the bench at the start of the third quarter as the Redskins stalled the ball for the first four minutes.

Paw Paw was able to protect its starters from further foul trouble, but White also thought the stall "helped us in our comeback...when they came back in the momentum was with us."

South Haven still trailed 45-43 entering the fourth quarter but forced the overtime on Sherman's two-point.

Rebounding Keys 64-60 Win Over Berrien Galien Pulls Down Red Arrow's Crown

By DAVE DELANEY
Staff Sports Writer

GALIEN — Credit the rebounding of Galien's front line for playing a big part in bringing the Gaels' their first Red Arrow conference basketball title in four years.

Dominating the boards throughout, Galien got past Berrien Springs 64-60 here Friday night to clinch at least a share of the league title. A victory at Watervliet next Friday would give the Gaels the championship outright.

The Gael front line of Don Koory, Dave Rock and Mike Kuntz pulled down 40 of the winner's 53 rebounds, while allowing the Shamrocks 37.

Rock had a season best of 14, while Koory matched that number and Kuntz hauled in an even dozen. Forty rebounds for that trio is also a season high.

"The game was as close as the score indicates," said a jubilant Gael coach Mike Heckathorn. Besides winning at least a share of the conference crown, the victory was sweet since it avenged a 64-57 Shamrock victory that snapped an earlier Galien eight-game win streak.

"We got an extremely good game rebounding from Rock," commented Heckathorn, "especially in the first three quarters."

The rebounding of Rock and Kuntz took much of the responsibility off the shoulders of Koory, the team's top rebounder.

"I felt real fortunate to win," explained the Gael coach, "since we missed four layups during the game." Three of those missed shots came in the deciding second half. Shamrock coach Connie Stover offered two prime reasons for the loss.

"We couldn't buy a basket when we needed one late in the game," said the rangy, blond-haired coach, "and their rebounding in the first half really hurt us."

First half fouls plagued the Shamrocks, also as they were whistled for 13 floor violations to just seven for the home club. "That really hurt our momentum," said the coach.

"They played real well as a team," noted Stover of the Gaels who had three of their six scoring players in twin figures.

Koory led the way with 22 points, highlighted by a nine point second quarter. Dale Luther turned in an aggressive performance from his guard slot on the way to a 15 point effort. Rock contributed 10 to the Gael cause.

Luther got the home team off to a quick start scoring a bucket only seconds after the opening tip. Mike Yates gave Berrien its only quarter-break lead with a jump shot that connected at the buzzer to end the first period and put the Shamrocks out front 12-10.

Galien roared back early in the second period and went ahead 14-13 on a Kuntz field goal.

Edwardsburg forward Rex Schenk led all scorers with 27 points while Dave Sievert added 14 and Ty Miller 11 for the Ed-dies.

The Lancers opened their final home game by falling behind by 10 points, but then switched from a zone defense into a man-to-man and raced back to take the lead at 17-16 with the help of back-to-back technical fouls against Edwardsburg coach Steve Lemme.

The Lancers added six points to their lead in the second quarter but had them all erased in the third quarter and went into the hectic final period holding a slim 35-34 edge.

Lakeshore was outshot 415 to 348, but got off 18 more attempts and collected two more baskets. From the free throw line the Lancers hit 17 of 29 and Edwardsburg 18 of 23.

The victory was Lakeshore's 23rd straight over Edwardsburg and assures the Lancers of at least a .500 season with a 10-8 record and two games to play.

The Lancers remain fourth in the Blossomland conference with a 7-4 league record. Edwardsburg is 4-8 in Blossomland play and 6-13 overall. Edwardsburg won the junior varsity game in overtime.

goal. The Shamrocks regained the lead 20-19 for the last time when Jack Lewis connected on a jumper.

The Gaels went to the locker room at intermission holding a 29-24 lead.

Luther and Shamrock Bill Decker each bagged six points for their respective teams during the nip-and-tuck third stanza. The eventual winners took a 43-38 lead into the last eight minutes of play.

Berrien chopped away at the Gael advantage during the last quarter and were able to get within four when senior Jerry Tollas sank two free throws making the score 51-47.

The Shamrocks were still scrappin' with 46 seconds showing on the clock with them trailing 63-58. Yates then connected on a field goal to draw the visitors within three...which was as close as the Shamrocks could get.

The winners made only 24 of 72 field goals (33 per cent) and paired this with 16 of 26 (62 per cent) shooting from the foul line.

Berrien hit on 23 of 65 (35 per cent) of its field goals and 67 per cent (14 of 21) free throws. The Gaels held turnovers to five in the first half, but were guilty of 22 by the end of the game. The Shamrocks made only seven floor errors during the first two quarters, but added 17 to their total in the second half to finish with 24.

The win sets the Gael record at 10-3 in the league and 15-3 overall.

"We're still in it," said Stover who has his fingers crossed for a Watervliet win next Friday. The Shamrocks are now 9-4 and 11-8 on the season.

The jayvee preliminary game went to Berrien 75-43 as Tim Sunday and Mitch Sluder bagged 15 points each. Rick Cauffman had 11 for the little Gaels while Dave Gerold dumped in 10.

Buchanan Claims Share Of Blossom Title

BUCHANAN — Buchanan claimed at least a share of the Blossomland championship in a Mike Busby sparked 90-70 victory over Brandywine here Friday night.

Busby fired in a career-high 26 points while drilling 13 of 18 shots as the Bucks claimed their first title in four seasons.

Buchanan is 9-2 in the league and 14-5 overall. Cassopolis, which lost to River Valley Friday night, is now tied for second with the Mustangs at 8-3.

"Michael really came through well for tonight," commented Buchanan coach Bill Wilson. "I'm really happy for him because he has worked very hard this year. He has been very patient and has never complained."

Busby, a 6-4 junior, hasn't played organized ball the last two seasons and has been a substitute most of this winter — including Friday night.

Ken Garrett added 17 points Friday night and Mark Jackson had 14, Mike McGuire 13 and Walt Vanderbush 12. Garrett hit on 8 of 15 shots while scoring in double figures for the 18th straight game. Jackson meshed 7 of 10 attempts.

Brandywine got 24 points from Terry Burgess and 10 from Dennis Wade while slipping to 3-8 in the Blossomland and 6-12 on the season.

Buchanan never really pulled away until the fourth quarter. The Bucks had leads of 20-18 after the first period, 41-34 at halftime and 62-55 entering the final stanza.

Busby then threw in eight points over the last eight minutes as the Bucks swished 13 of 23 shots for a 28 to 15 scoring edge.

"They (the Bucks) really buckled down and hustled real hard on the press," added Wilson on the fourth quarter rout. "We got some key turnovers and ran the break real well."

Buchanan forced Brandywine into a damaging 30 turnovers, including nine in the last quarter. The Bucks had 13.

Both teams shot well overall, with Buchanan meshing 42 of 88 (48 per cent) and Brandywine 28 of 62 (45 per cent).

At the free throw lines, the Bucks hit on 6 of 13 (46 per cent) and the Bobcats 14 of 21 (67 per cent).

Buchanan had a slim 39 to 38 rebounding edge.

Buchanan will now go for the outright championship next Friday at River Valley.

Buchanan also won Friday night's junior varsity preliminary 77-60 with Moe Kyles scoring 18, Kevin Vanderbush 17, Gerald Busby 16 and Greg Frazier 14. Greg Bestie got 18 for Brandywine.

Linke, Runser Lead Bee 72-47 Rout Of Panthers

BRIDGMAN — Sophomore Bob Linke tossed in a career-high 24 points and senior Jeff Runser 15 to spark Bridgman to a 72-47 blasting of Watervliet here Friday night.

The Bees stung the Panthers early 10-0 and then continued to mount up the points. Bridgman led 21-9 after one period, 36-15 at the half, 56-23 after three quarters and 68-27 with four and a half minutes left in the game. At that point the Bee subs took over and the Panthers managed 20 points to make the final score more respectable.

"We played real well tonight, especially Linke and Runser," noted Bee coach Doug Hendricks, who was coaching his 100th game at Bridgman (63-37 record). "Runser did a fantastic job with a balance between scoring and moving the ball. And we played without starting forward Robin Vincek, who was out with the flu."

Runser hit nine points in the opening quarter while Linke had 10 in the second and third periods. Howie Mutz added 10 netted 22 and Tom Meridith 18 for the winners. Fluga had 15 for Watervliet.

S.D. Outlasts Nets In Wild Marathon

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The usual objective of a basketball game is to win, but sometimes it is just to get the thing over with.

Especially when the game runs 68 minutes playing time...3 hours 10 minutes from tipoff to buzzer...72 personal fouls...128 rebounds...and 342 points.

Friday night's 176-166 American Basketball Association victory by the San Diego Conquistadors over the New York Nets went through four overtimes. It was less basketball than it was a marathon race with the best conditioned team coming out the winner.

"The score sounds like they're playing half-court," said one sports writer.

In a more conventional 48-minute game, the Virginia Squires beat the Memphis Sounders 96-82.

When the Nets-Q's game ended at 11:10 p.m. PST, seven players had accumulated six personal fouls, which in the National Basketball Association would have meant departure from the game. Unmercifully, the ABA allows them to run to exhaustion.

Julius Erving scored a career-high 63 points, hitting 25 of 46 shot attempts, but Julius scored just one basket in the last 12 minutes of play. Said losing Coach Kevin Loughery: "If Dr. J. didn't get tired he wouldn't be human."

One reason the 6-foot-7 Erving failed to score in the final minutes was the defensive job done by 6-foot-2 guard Warren Jabali.

"I put Warren on Dr. J. and he did a heck of a job on Erving," said Q's Coach Beryl Shipley. "I never even put (Travis) Grant in there in the fourth overtime because Grant on Erving is a defensive mismatch."

"I've never been in a game like this one," said Erving, "and I hope I'm never in one like this again...unless we win. It's just so disheartening to lose when you put so much into it."

Erving admitted, however, that he played the last three overtime periods with a slightly twisted left ankle which limited his scope. He managed to haul down 23 of his team's 57 rebounds.

The Q's Bo Lamar, playing for his former college coach at Southwestern Louisiana, had a career-high 45 points as he hit 18 of 30 shots from the field and it was his six free throws plus a basket in the final five-minute extra session that sank the Nets.

Playing before their largest home crowd in two seasons, 8,323, the Memphis Sounds fell behind 37-13 in the first period and never caught up. Reserve forward George Irvine scored 10 points in the first quarter for Virginia.

Irvine finished with 17 points while teammates Mel Daniels scored 19 and Dave Twardzik 18.

Bulls Continue Hot Pace; Pistons Stay In Slump

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

In the National Basketball Association, it's the wild, wild Midwest.

Only three of the four teams are in the NBA's Midwest Division can make the playoffs, and after two-thirds of the regular season, there's still no telling who's going to be the odd man out.

The Chicago Bulls have won 11 of their last 13 games, including a 105-87 decision over the Golden State Warriors Friday night, and lead the Midwest by four games.

The Kansas City-Omaha Kings, whose 132-112 triumph over the Buffalo Braves was their eighth victory in nine starts, are now in second place by one percentage point over the Detroit Pistons, 103-101 losers to the Philadelphia 76ers.

Aid the Milwaukee Bucks, who got off to a woe-filled start because of the injuries to Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, have their center back in top form and are just one game below .500 and 2½ games behind KC.

Omaha after beating the Cleveland Cavaliers 112-105.

Chicago Coach Dick Motta, who is confident his team will win the division, assesses the rest of the race this way:

"Over-all, you have to figure KC-Omaha will make it to the playoffs because they are just playing great right now. I'm also sure that Milwaukee will come on strong. I'm afraid that a good team from our division will miss the playoffs."

Elsewhere in the NBA Friday night, the New Orleans Jazz beat the Houston Rockets 124-112, the Boston Celtics defeated the Phoenix Suns 112-106, the Los Angeles Lakers topped the Atlanta Hawks 108-100 and the Portland Trail Blazers edged the Seattle SuperSonics 90-88.

Bob Love poured in 30 points and center Nate Thurmond hauled down 23 rebounds for the Bulls.

Jimmy Walker scored 32 points and backcourt mate Nate Archibald added 30 points and 16 assists for KC-Omaha.

Doug Collins' basket with 11 seconds to go and two free throws by Fred Carter with six seconds left helped the 76ers withstand a charge by Detroit.

Abdul-Jabbar scored 32 points and grabbed 17 rebounds to lead the Bucks.

After losing its first 28 road games, New Orleans posted its second road victory in seven days.

John Havlicek scored 13 of his 19 points in a 36-point Boston blitz in the third quarter that broke the game open.

Cazzie Russell scored 27 points and Happy Hairston hauled in 20 rebounds as Los Angeles snapped a three-game losing streak.

John Johnson scored 20 points to lead Portland.

Bobby Unser Edges Foyt In 'Mad' Champions Race

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — They took away the outside factors which so heavily affect the outcome of most races and had one that was pure sport. The result was organized mayhem.

Nine world-class drivers, in cars identically prepared, strained their machines beyond their ultimate Friday in the final 100-mile sprint of the four-race, $200,000 International Race of Champions.

"You had to squeeze out every second you could get," said Bobby Unser, who won $41,400 in the series after nosing out A.J. Foyt by scant inches.

Scarcely 20 feet separated the first four cars, 20 feet at the end of 100 miles in which the cars raced along sometimes in single file, inches separating them, or three to four abreast as if they were in military formation.

"It had to be one of the wildest rides I've ever experienced," said Ronnie Peterson of Sweden, one of six drivers who at one time or another held the lead and who left the race after spinning wildly out of control of the 29th of the 40 laps around the Daytona International Speedway oval.

This series was designed to find the world's best driver by matching them in equal cars in short races. There is no chance for strategy because the driver does not have his own pit crew and laps under the caution flag do not count. It is flat-out racing, a true test of speed.

And veteran observers of auto racing agreed that Friday's mad dash here was perhaps the most exciting, most demanding, most daring test of driving they had ever witnessed.

Foyt, who like Unser is 40 years old, made a valiant try to nudge his long-time Indianapolis rival at the wire, whipping out from behind the front-running Unser to make a last-ditch lunge. Race officials said he fell two feet short of Unser who averaged 187.516 miles an hour.

Immediately behind them, side by side at 180 m.p.h., were third-place Cale Yarborough and fourth-place Bobby Allison. David Pearson was fifth and two-time world driving champion Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil was sixth.

The two wild spins, which sent three cars crashing into the outer wall along the backstretch and forced other drivers into hair-raising maneuvers to avoid disaster, sent Peterson, George Follmer and 1974 Indy winner Johnny Rutherford to the sidelines.

"I'm very happy about the money," said Unser, whose elder brother, Al, and top driver Mario Andretti were not invited because they use one brand of tire and this series was sponsored by another tire company.

"But more than that," he said, "I'm happy to have survived."

At times, these $15,000 Camaros passed the grandstand and it was not possible to see light between them. They raced door handle to door handle in what had to be the ultimate test of raw nerve and talent.

Garner Hot For Ferris

BIG RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Ferris State set a home-court winning streak record of 20 consecutive basketball triumphs Friday night by beating Northeastern Illinois, 85-81, behind the 28-point performance of Lewis Garner.

Steve Kidd tallied 22 points for Northeastern, which is now 11-13.

Red Wings For Sale?

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Former Detroit Red Wings Marty Pavelich and Ted Lindsay head a group trying to buy the National Hockey League club from Bruce Norris for about $10 million, the Oakland Press reported today.

The Press, in a story by Sports Editor Bruno Kearns, also said the Red Wings could play at a proposed arena in Pontiac if the sale is made. And it said that Norris is interested in possibly getting an NHL expansion franchise for Tampa or Miami, Fla.

A source close to the group negotiating for the Wings' franchise, according to the Press, said Norris has a commitment from the NHL to put a franchise in Florida.

Norris has a development corporation with main offices in Homosassa Springs, Fla., near Tampa.

Norris wants to sell Olympia Stadium, the Red Wings' home, as part of the franchise sale, the Press said. It added that the Pavelich-Lindsay group made an offer to lease the stadium.

Meanwhile, Robert Forte of the Optyke Development Corp., said he expects to go ahead with plans to build a 16,500-seat arena on his 117 acres across from Pontiac Metropolitan Stadium. The stadium, still under construction, will be the home of the Detroit Lions of the National Football League. Forte's plans call for a $200 million complex.

"Mortgage money is starting to loosen and I expect that by mid-summer we might know of our starting plans for the arena and other phases of the complex," he said.

He said he has been in contact with major tenants for the proposed arena but would not specify if they were hockey, basketball or other possible tenants.

According to the Press, neither Tampa nor Miami has an adequate facility for pro hockey, but plans are on the drawing board.

Detroit Blows Lead, Game

VANCOUVER (AP) — Goals by Ab DeMarco and Dennis Ververgaert in the final three minutes rallied the Vancouver Canucks to a 5-4 National Hockey League victory over the Detroit Red Wings Friday night.

The triumph gave the Canucks a five-point lead over second-place Chicago in Division 2.

After DeMarco's 10th goal of the season tied the score with 2:45 left to play, Ververgaert got the winner at 18:33 of the period on a shot from directly in front of Detroit goalie Jim Rutherford. It was his 12th goal of the year and was set up by Mike Robitaille and Andre Boudrias.

The Vancouver comeback nullified a three-goal effort by Detroit's Danny Grant, who raised his total to 35 for the season. Larry Giroux scored Detroit's other goal, his first.

The clubs were tied 1-1 after one period and 3-3 after two. Grant's third goal put the Wings on top 4-3 at 14:14 of the third period.

Don Lever, John Gould and Boudrias were the other Vancouver scorers.

Fennville Loses Overtime Battle

HOPKINS — Hopkins captured the championship in the Allegan-Ottawa league with an 80-72 overtime victory over Fennville here Friday.

Blackhawk Marc Moeller sent the game into overtime, connecting on a field goal with three seconds to go. The 6-3 junior forward had hit on a field goal with 25 seconds left.

"The big difference was their rebounding," said Fennville coach Tom Pelon. The home team cleaned the boards for 45 rebounds, leaving the Blackhawks with 31. "We moved the ball as good as we've ever done," commented Pelon. Senior Jeff Thompson bagged a career high 31 points for the Blackhawks to lead all scorers.

Both clubs shot well, with the winners hitting on a sizzling 38 of 61 field goals (62 per cent) and picking up six points at the free throw line in 11 attempts for 55 per cent.

Fennville canned field goals at 47 per cent (30 of 64) and made 12 of 18 (67 per cent) of its free throws.

Tim Stennett led Blackhawk rebounders with 10, while Fennville was guilty of 20 turnovers.

"They came at us from all angles," said Pelon of the Hopkins shooters. Four from the winning team landed in double figures, led by 18 points from Terry Pawloski. Moeller had 26, doing his 23.8 average no harm.

Fennville led after one quarter 20-17, at halftime 40-36 and going into the final period 54-52. Hopkins, is 5-1 in the league and 11-7 overall. Fennville slipped to 3-2 in conference play and 9-8 on the season.

Lawrence Victory Keeps SAC Title Dreams Alive

MARTIN — Lawrence mauled Martin 80-50 here Friday night to wrap up a 9-3 Southwestern Athletic Conference season.

Now the Tigers must stand back and watch to see if they're going to figure in the championship picture. Decatur leads the league at 8-2 but has conference clashes next week with Bloomingdale and Marcellus.

"It was a big game for us tonight," noted Lawrence coach Dave Baker. "We had to hold our losses at three to have a chance."

Lynn Boltmott scored 23 points Friday night and Jerry Darling added 14 and Dana Rowe 10 as Lawrence hiked its overall record to 14-4 with two non-league games remaining.

Rob Vanderberg had 13 for Martin as the Clippers slipped to their fifth straight loss. Martin stands 1-11 in the league and 2-16 on the season.

Lawrence was in command all the way Friday night with leads of 22-12 after the first quarter, 42-25 at halftime and 64-39 entering the last period.

"This was a good game for us," continued Baker. "We looked sharp again tonight. The kids really came around...they looked tough."

The Tigers hit 34 of 77 field goals (44 per cent), 12 of 15 free throws (80 per cent) and posted a 49 to 30 rebounding edge, including 10 each by Boltmott and Dave Congdon.

Martin meshed 18 of 59 from the floor (31 per cent) and 14 of 19 at the lines (74 per cent). Lawrence also won the junior varsity preliminary.

Cards Win Behind 38 By Mosley

BLOOMINGDALE — With many new faces in the lineup, and Tony Mosley scoring a career high 38 points, Bloomingdale flattened SAC foe Lawton here Friday night 79-59.

It was a good night for Mosley and fellow senior Tony Givhan who combined for 62 points, with Givhan bagging 24.

The third quarter was the best for both, as Mosley connected on 6 of 6 field goals and Givhan 6 of 7. The team was right with them, popping in 14 of 17.

The victory was the seventh straight for a Cardinal team over Lawton and also broke a five-game losing streak.

"Mosley and Givhan getting hot in the third period made the difference for us," said winning coach Ray Lasco, whose squad is now 7-3 in the league and 11-6 overall. Lawton is 2-7 in the conference and 4-12 overall.

The Cardinals won the battle of the boards and helped their cause with 24 steals. The winners held turnovers to 14.

Bloomingdale connected on 33 of 81 field goals (41 per cent) and hit on 13 of 22 (59 per cent) free throws. Lawton made good on 7 of 15 (47 per cent) of its free throws.

Leading rebounder for the Cardinals was 6-2 sophomore Owen Campbell, recently brought up from the jayvee team.

Randy Russell poured through 14 points for Lawton, while Dan Milam had 12 and Brad Bolton 11.

Niles Wins Going Away At Portage

PORTAGE — Patient Niles played a waiting game and it paid off with a 69-55 victory over Portage Central in a Big Six conference basketball game here Friday night.

Coach Dean Adams' Vikings nursed a slim lead throughout the game until Portage finally was forced to come out of its tight zone defense and then blew the contest wide open with a succession of easy layups.

Forwards John Harrington and Bill Brenner paced the victory with 18 and 16 points respectively and were instrumental in producing a 57 per cent team shooting average.

Brenner cashed in on 8 of 9 shots and Harrington sank 8 of 15 as the Vikings hit 29 of 51 from the field and 11 of 15 at the free throw line.

Pat Cooper added 15 points and Jeff Miller 12 for Niles, which remains tied with St. Joseph for second place in the Big Six on a 6-3 conference record. The Vikings now are 12-6 overall.

Portage, 4-5 in the Big Six and 8-9 for the season, got 18 points from Tim Bourdo, 12 from Jack Bray and 11 from Craig Camp.

Bangor's Last-Ditch Comeback Try Short

MATTAWAN — A last-ditch Bangor rally fell just short and the Vikings lost to Mattawan 51-49 in a Kalamazoo Valley Association contest here Friday night.

Bangor, trailing by 15 points going into the finale, scored with 16 seconds left in the game to narrow the gap to two points. Craig Mitchell then stole a Mattawan pass. But a desperate 25-foot shot by Tony Coulter was wide as the final gun sounded.

Coulter paced the last-period comeback when he scored 10 of his 14 points. Mitchell fired in six of his 14 in the finale when the Vikings outpointed Mattawan 14-6.

Bangor, which was behind 33-18 after a dismal first half effort, hit 24 of 67 shots for 36 per cent while Mattawan was 22 of 51 for 43 per cent. So the difference was at the foul lines where the Vikings only managed one of five to the host's seven of 13.

Tom Munting led Mattawan with 19 points.

Bangor held a slight 22-21 board edge with Mitchell getting eight and Coulter six rebounds.

The Vikings, who had won three in a row, finish with a 6-6 KVA mark. The Vikings are 10-9 overall. Mattawan is now 5-6 in league action.

Mattawan also captured the junior varsity tilt.

Methanol (Wood Alcohol) Touted As Auto Fuel

By JERRY BARKAVY
Associated Press Writer
PORTLAND, Maine

(AP) — Methanol, a synthetic fuel which helped power the Nazi war machine, is being hailed as a way to achieve energy independence in Maine.

Commonly known as wood alcohol, methanol can be produced under existing technology from coal, wood and even municipal trash, says Robert A.G. Monks, director of the state's Office of Energy Resources.

As Monks sees it, sections of Maine's vast forests could become a feedstock for methanol. By using the wood on a sustained yield basis, the process could eliminate for all time dependence on imported oil.

Methanol is produced by placing wood or any other cellulosic fiber in an enclosed chamber and heating it in the absence of oxygen. When water is injected, the result is a clear liquid which can supplant many existing forms of energy, Monks said.

"It's a very flexible, clean, high quality fuel, and it can be used in any of the three basic areas of energy: transportation, space heating and electric power."

Because they lacked adequate oil resources, Germany and Japan used coal-based methanol toward the end of World War II to fuel their tanks and planes.

"Indeed, the Germans still have substantial methanol operations today," Monks said.

He said tests at Massachusetts Institute of Technology have proven the feasibility of blending methanol with gasoline as a motor vehicle fuel.

METHANOL TEST: Thomas Reed, a Massachusetts Institute of Technology professor, pours methanol into his gasoline for test of methanol's ability to run car efficiently. (AP Wirephoto)

"It's actually possible to operate a car on 100 per cent methanol, but you have to adjust your carburetor to change the air mixture," said Monks. "For home furnaces, all you have to do is change the nozzle."

Another application, he said, would be as a substitute for diesel fuel in electric generating plants.

A millionaire industrialist, financier and politician with a background in the oil business, Monks has been working fulltime on projects aimed at easing Maine's energy problems.

Monks said Gov. James B. Longley is enthusiastic about the methanol project and has asked him to give it top priority.

Neighboring New Hampshire, similar to Maine in both its forest resources and dependence on imported energy, is also interested in methanol production.

Monks has approached several Maine timberland firms and industrial giants such as Union Carbide with proposals for setting up a pilot plant to produce methanol out of the state's waste wood.

"There's an awful lot of wood in Maine that just slays on the forest floor," he said. "There's dead trees, limbs, tops and blowdowns that go to waste."

Monks said private enterprise is best equipped to start up a methanol plant. And despite the nation's economic malaise, he said he has received expressions of interest from several firms.

The inflated costs of conventional fuels, he said, should make the project profitable, even though there is no wood-based methanol plant operating anywhere in the world to use as an example.

Dems Would Reward Little Car Buyers

By PEGGY SIMPSON

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of House Democrats is considering a proposal to reward new car buyers who choose models that get good gasoline mileage and punish those who pick gas guzzlers.

Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., said Friday an excise tax could be put on cars which get less than, for instance, 18 miles per gallon and a refund in the form of a price cut could be made to buyers choosing cars getting better than 18 miles per gallon.

Wright, leader of a party task force preparing a package of energy proposals, expressed hope the plan would be ready for House consideration by early March.

The package would be an alternative to President Ford's proposals, which are based on increasing fuel prices as a way of lowering consumption. The full House and the Senate Finance Committee have voted to block the first part of the administration program, a tariff on imported oil.

Ford has criticized Congress for delaying his plan without first formulating its own plan. In an effort to answer this criticism, Democratic task forces in both houses are working on a proposed energy program. The party task force in the Senate is expected to recommend a program based around an increase in the gasoline tax.

Wright said the House panel has discussed a spread of up to $1,000 between the maximum excise tax on gas guzzlers and the rebate on the most economical cars.

He said another probable recommendation is a tax on gasoline to reduce nonessential driving.

He said the gasoline tax might start at 8 cents a gallon this year, go up to 12 cents next year and 16 cents the following year.

Each family would be rebated, probably once a year, the tax on what would be calculated to be the average gasoline needed for essential driving, such as 40 gallons a month.

While details of the proposal are still sketchy, Wright said the cost of higher gasoline would be vastly lower to consumers than the estimated $740 a year which Democrats calculate each family would have to pay in higher prices under Ford's program.

Meanwhile, one of the Senate's leading experts on energy, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, criticized the Ford administration for "confusing the issue" on the energy crisis and the economy.

Jackson, a Washington Democrat who has announced his candidacy for his party's 1976 presidential nomination, said that "80 per cent of Ford's energy program represents bills that (former President Richard M.) Nixon had vetoed and the bills Ford objected to."

Meanwhile, Asst. Secretary of State Thomas O. Enders said a shutoff of Middle Eastern oil "would be something very close to nuclear warfare."

Enders did not indicate whether he mentioned warfare as a solution to an embargo or as an example of the devastating effects of a shutoff. His statement was reminiscent of one by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Kissinger's statement was that armed intervention would be a possibility if an oil embargo threatened to strangle the industrialized nations.

Air Crash Kills Rep. Pettis

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — Rep. Jerry Pettis, 58, R-Calif., was killed Friday night when his twin-engine plane crashed into the side of a mountain. A former professor of economics at Loma Linda University, Pettis had been a member of Congress since 1966.

Temporary Homes Sought For Dogs

ALLEGAN — Allegan county 4-H agents are seeking five county families that will take care of puppies that will eventually be trained as seeing eye dogs, according to a spokesman at the county's cooperative extension office.

The families would give the dog "basic training" for a year before the animal is sent to a school to be trained as a leader dog for the blind.

The spokesman said families interested in the program should contact the extension office.

Harrison Van Ard of San Bernardino, Calif., said he has spent the past 15 years developing a cross-breed which would combine the rugged, spotted appearance of a leopard with the gentleness of the housecat. BH SCHOOLS

Headquarters Gets Update

A $60,657 construction and remodeling project has been completed that brings the Benton Harbor Area Schools' business and administration operations under one roof at 711 East Britain avenue.

School officials announced an open house for all district employees from 3:30 to 5 p.m. next Tuesday.

The complex totals 6,664 square feet and includes two existing buildings that were joined by new construction. The buildings are the former Lake Michigan college administration building and the next door LMC student union.

The project was completed over the past year-and-a-half on a piecemeal basis, said Edward Troffer, director of buildings and grounds for the district.

Troffer traced the project, starting with the former administration headquarters, a large, old house at 400 Pipestone street that was torn down last fall.

Troffer said estimates to renovate the old house ran to $26,600 for general construction alone. A new boiler was needed, along with wiring to handle electric typewriters and calculators, and new flooring.

According to Troffer, construction at the new location for all the offices moved from the Pipestone site cost $17,177. Of this, $12,166 was for the personnel office, new construction that connected the two existing buildings and providing 384 square feet. The remainder was for partitions and decorating in the former LMC administration building, which contains 2,920 square feet.

Troffer said the largest part of the project cost another $43,480. This was to tear out the interior of the former union building, containing 3,360 square feet, and install new plumbing, ventilating and wiring, as well as decorating. This is the business area.

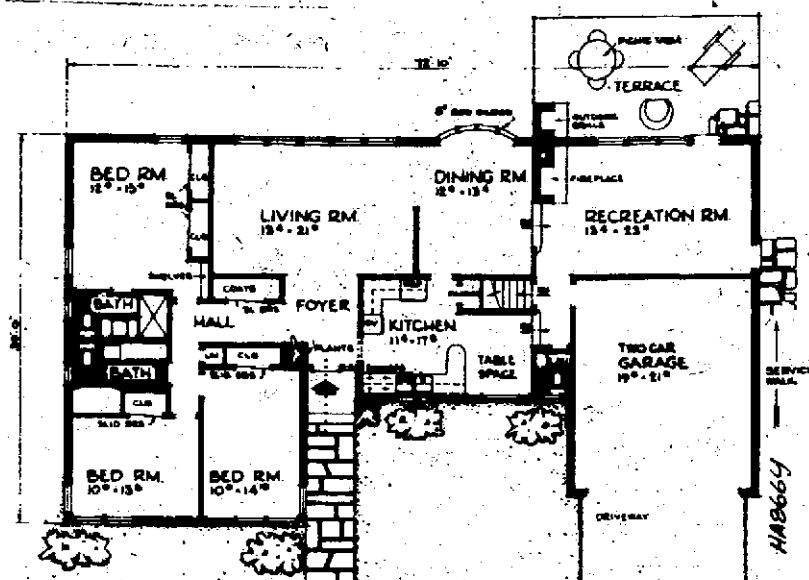

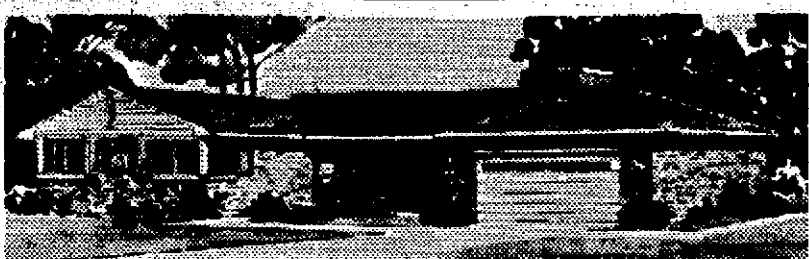

Troffer said the district required additional space for added special education and compensatory programs. These two areas are now in the district's building at 240 Jefferson street in space formerly used by the business office.

As to tearing down the Pipestone street house, Troffer said the area for the first time will provide a practice football field and track facilities for nearby central junior high school.

The $43,480 cost of renovating the former LMC union amounted to $12 to $13 per square foot, Troffer said, compared to $20 to $22 per square foot for new construction.

The former LMC administration office and union in bygone years belonged to the Benton Harbor district when it operated the Benton Harbor community college. The former union also at one time was a maintenance shop for Stouffer Electric Co. The local school district acquired both again after LMC relocated in Benton township. Most recently, the administration office was the reading center, while the union building was the audio visual center. The former is now at the old Stump school, while the latter is now in the district service center on Milton street.

Hayes & Son Construction Co. handled most of the general construction work, Troffer said. Other work included Ideal Plumbing, Stouffer Electric and Piontek decorating. Hoffman Construction Co. did work such as paneling, for a total of $2,394, Troffer said.

ALL PRINCIPAL ROOMS of this three-bedroom ranch face toward the privacy of the rear outdoor living area. The formal dining room has been planned with floor-length bow window, which offers an unobstructed view of the children's play area and surrounding gardens. The window-walled recreation room has a fireplace, with convenient outdoor grill. Herman H. York, 90-04 161st street, Jamaica, N.Y. 11432 is architect for HA866Y, which includes 1,668 square feet, not counting the recreation room and garage. The cost of the blueprint can be learned by writing to York, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Today's Real Estate

The problem of finding low cost housing for those in the lower income brackets is rightly getting publicity nationally. Various programs for using federal money as a subsidy in one form or another have been set in motion.

This is natural, because money is the only tool the Congress has to use directly in creating housing. It can be excused for being wary of programs involving private enterprise because the latter depend on actions over which the Congress has very little control.

But the public should not be wary of private enterprise solutions. We should seek them out. The amount of housing that can be provided by the federal government, or local government, for that matter, can only be very small, compared to the total housing in our country.

One practical way of providing low cost housing is to use the housing already in existence. Instead of letting a house become dilapidated, or remain dilapidated, it should be brought up to a certain standard of livability, and used.

Rehabilitation of existing housing is almost always cheaper than new construction. Correcting the faults in a 30-year-old house is seldom a major task. Perhaps it is a wiring overhaul, roof repairs, plumbing fixtures replaced, paint inside and out, and most of all the care that pride brings. We should look for ways of encouraging that.

Of the hundreds of thousands of dwelling units demolished each year, most could be saved. Some of the shining examples of success in such efforts are restoration of the fine old row houses in the Georgetown section of our nation's capital. These not only were restored from slums, but became sought-after dwellings because of their charm and convenience. Charleston, South Carolina, had this same experience. So did Philadelphia.

The Old Town section of Chicago, created in the midst of a slum, is another example which is spreading, much to the delight of Chicagoans and visitors who have made it a tourist attraction. The average rehabilitation, however, is not that dramatic. It also faces hurdles we must recognize and try to overcome.

It has been often remarked that the first one to congratulate the rehabilitator of a house is the tax assessor. A proposal gaining increased attention is that anyone rehabilitating a house be given a moratorium on any tax increase resulting for at least five years. This would make rehabilitation more attractive to the individual owner. It would also encourage landlords to improve housing they offer for rent, for they might increase its desirability enough to justify a small rent increase and within five years pay for the improvements.

Coupled with this problem of rehabilitation is the problem of tenants who do not care for the property they occupy. Some even treat the property so badly that it discourages any attempt to keep them in repair.

To cope with the situation, one federal program, Section 21 of the United States Housing Act of 1968, known as Section 21 Leased Housing, is trying with success a solution that private enterprise could well copy. As a condition of leasing, some community housing authorities make it just short of mandatory that the tenant attend an educational class which reviews the principles of sanitation, home economics, cleanliness and upkeep that are accepted by society. It offers consultation. It also has a system of checking tenants occasionally to see what care the property is getting.

There is a great deal of livability, charm, and practicality in most older houses. We can encourage their best use to solve a serious low-cost housing problem if we support means of rehabilitating them - as individuals, as a neighborhood, as a community, and as a government.

For a list of low income properties in need of rehabilitation, call or write Benton Real Estate Service, 1014 Main Street, St. Joseph, MI, 983-1583.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Defies Sagging Economy

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market passed an impressive milestone this past week as it continued its 1975 rally in persistent defiance of the recession-ridden economy.

With Friday's close, the Dow Jones industrial average had, in just six and a half weeks since New Year's Day, recovered more than half of its loss in the devastating bear market of 1974.

The week's 22.29-point gain in the Dow average of 30 blue chip issues brought it to 734.20. It had started last year at 850.86, and wound up Dec. 31 at 618.24.

Still a long way off, however, was the all-time closing high of 1011.70 on Jan. 11, 1973.

But another record proved to be within reach. On Thursday, New York Stock Exchange volume soared to 35.16 million shares, far surpassing the previous high of 32.13 million set Jan. 27.

Big Board volume for the week of 110.83 million shares ranked third in exchange history behind the two previous weeks, when 145.68 million and 127.35 million shares were traded.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index showed a 2.87 gain for the week to 81.50, and the NYSE composite index rose 1.41 to 43.21.

On Monday and Tuesday the market backed off slightly in relatively quiet trading, with investors seemingly waiting for the kind of partial pullback that often follows a sharp gain.

But by Wednesday many traders apparently began to worry that no significant decline was going to occur, and their buying for fear of missing further gains set the market into a new upsurge that lasted through the close Friday.

For encouragement, there were some further declines in interest rates and news of the second straight monthly decline in the government's wholesale price index in January.

And it was evident that the market also got a lift from published reports Wednesday that investment money was flowing into the United States from oil-producing nations at a faster rate than had previously been believed.

IBM, which attracted considerable attention by breaking above 200 and holding there, jumped 2 1/2 to 220 1/2. Eastman Kodak gained 7 1/2 to 86 1/2. McDonald's was up 3 1/2 to 40 1/2, and Walt Disney Productions, buoyed by the company's report of strong amusement park attendance, surged 5 1/2 to 38 1/2.

S.S. Kresge, the NYSE's most active issue, lost 1 1/2 to 23. On Tuesday the company said its earnings for the fiscal year that ended late last month would be "very disappointing."

In all 1,174 Big Board issues gained and 634 declined among the 2,012 traded. There were 87 new 1974-75 highs, against only three new lows.

Houston Oil & Minerals, the American Stock Exchange volume leader, was down 1 1/2 to 25 1/2.

The Amex market value index rose 1.71 to 76.79.

'Action' Opening New Center

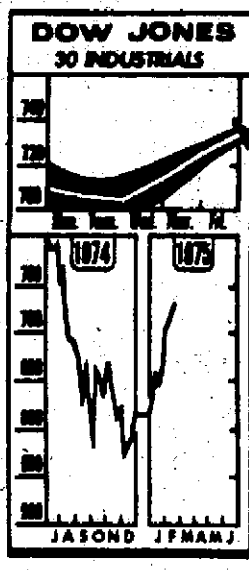

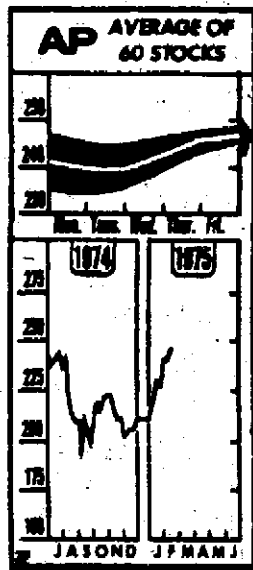

NEW BUFFALO — Berrien County Action, Inc. is opening a New Buffalo area community center at fire station No. 2, US-12 in New Buffalo township.

There will be an open house and ribbon-cutting ceremony at 11 a.m. Friday, Feb. 21.

The center will be open five days a week from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. The office will have a staff of outreach workers for the southeastern area of Berrien county.

Berrien County Action's program is to help low-income families learn how to help themselves by providing outreach and referral service, and other crises of living in today's inflationary situation.

The public may contact the south county supervisor, Cletha Wade of Niles, and the New Buffalo office for further information.

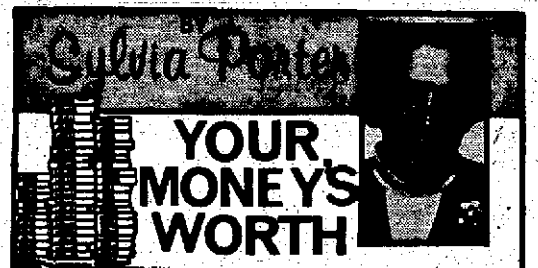

MARKET GAINS: The stock market posted more gains this week with the Dow Jones average closing at 734.20, up 22.29 from the week prior and its highest close since Aug. 15. The Associated Press average rose by 5.6 over the week to close at 247.5. Volume on Friday totaled 23.29 million shares, not up to Thursday's record of 35.15 million. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

OFFICE-AT-HOME AND BUSINESS-PLEASURE TRIPS

While office-at-home expense deductions are most often claimed by you, as an employee or self-employed person, under a 1974 Tax Court case, you — only an investor — also may be able to qualify for this significant deduction if you have the proper set of facts.

In this provocative case — with widespread implications — the taxpayer was neither employed nor self-employed. All she did was manage and conserve certain rental properties and securities that she owned. Her income came entirely from dividends, interest, rents and capital gains. Her activities at home consisted of (1) maintaining a card system of sums due and paid on her rental property, (2) filing bills and receipts, (3) computing her income tax and (4) writing letters to real estate brokers, stock brokers, taxing authorities and the Internal Revenue Service. She did most of this work in the family room of the house, and some of it in other rooms.

The Treasury didn't even question her right to an office-at-home deduction. Its only objection was to the amount of her deduction. It was willing to let her deduct 7.7 per cent of her home expenses, on the basis that she used one average-sized room in the house for her investment activities.

But the Tax Court allowed her to deduct 15.4 per cent of her home expenses because she in fact used the larger family room as her office.

Don't go overboard in relying on this decision, however. In this instance, the taxpayer had a strong case because of her degree of investment activity and her use of the entire room as her office.

If you devote substantially less time and space to your investment activities at home, both the Treasury and Tax Court will sharply reduce or even knock out any office-at-home expense deductions you may claim for your investment activities.

Under another 1974 Tax Court case, millions of you who are self-employed and who operate from an office-at-home — doctors, lawyers, real estate brokers, the like — also received good news.

In this case, a doctor who carried on his practice in an office in his house was involved. In order to accommodate his patients, he widened his driveway and converted it into an illuminated parking area. He also installed extra phone extensions throughout his house to be able to take business calls in any area. The doctor's wife helped by handling bills, chatting with patients, otherwise being of assistance, in various rooms of the house other than the office as such.

The Treasury allowed the doctor to deduct the house expenses allocable to the office plus about 20 per cent of the expenses allocable to the rest of the house and the grounds.

The Tax Court DOUBLED the amount the treasury allowed for upkeep of the grounds and increased to about 30 per cent the deduction for expenses allocable to the rest of the house.

The key point that Leon Gold, chief tax expert of the Research Institute of America, emphasizes for your guidance is this:

The Tax Court is much more willing than the Treasury to take into consideration the additional house expenses that you, a taxpayer, find essential when you carry on a business or practice in an office in your own residence. If you want to fight, the message is clear.

On another aspect, if you are among the hundreds of thousands of professionals or business persons who deduct part of the cost of a trip that combines pleasure with some educational or business purpose, proceed with caution.

The IRS is exceedingly suspicious about the deductibility of many of your business-pleasure trips or cruises. Early last year, for instance, it announced that "where there are indications of abuse, the IRS will request lists of the names and addresses of the participants (apparently from the cruise organizer) on cruises and vacation trips which purport to provide professional or business activities during or in combination with recreation."

Later in 1974, the IRS ruled on the specific situation of a doctor who joined a travel group designed to combine travel to certain cities in each of two countries with three professional seminars in each country. Each seminar was given in a different city and each lasted for two hours. The IRS ruled that these six two-hour seminars did not convert what was in substance a nondeductible vacation trip into a deductible business trip.

So be warned about what may happen to your deduction for your combined business-pleasure trip. Tailor your trip to fit the standards or be on guard when you claim a deduction.

Unemployment Offices See No Job Abundance

By Associated Press
Are Americans too picky about the kind of jobs they'll accept? Would people rather collect unemployment benefits than accept a less-than-perfect position?

State officials, answering charges that low-paying jobs are going begging despite a nationwide unemployment rate of 8.2 per cent in January say it isn't so.

The Labor Department said 5.6 million persons were collecting unemployment benefits in the week ended Jan. 25, yet several companies have complained recently that they were unable to fill jobs with pay ranging from $2 to $2.50 an hour.

Lillian Lee Deslattes of the A-1 Employment Service in New Orleans said she had well-paying jobs available, but could not find applicants.

"Never a day passes that someone doesn't say, 'I'll talk to you when the unemployment compensation runs out,'" Mrs. Deslattes said. "If people wanted to work, unemployment could be cut by 2 1/2 to 3 per cent."

But state officials contacted by The Associated Press don't agree. They say anyone collecting unemployment benefits must be willing to accept a "suitable" job. The problem is determining what is suitable.

"We realize we can't take a professional man and ask him to do manual labor," said John J. Killen, manager of the New Orleans office of the Louisiana Division of Employment Security.

"But if he refuses a job that we feel is suitable, we can stop his benefits immediately," Killen said, adding that the maximum unemployment payment is $80 a week. The unemployment rate was 8.7 per cent in New Orleans during December.

Marcia Donnan, South Dakota's secretary of manpower affairs, said that while it is technically possible for someone collecting unemployment and other aid benefits to lose money by taking a job at the minimum wage, "people opt for work rather than welfare. We've seen no evidence in our programs of low-paying jobs going begging."

The state's unemployment rate is 4.5 per cent, well below the national average, but high for the state, according to Mrs. Donnan.

Don Main, a spokesman for the Indiana Employment Security Division, said some low-paying jobs do go begging.

"But this is primarily because of other factors such as location and transportation, not necessarily pay alone," Main said.

Main said the state's maximum unemployment benefit for someone with four or more dependents is $100 a week. He said workers collecting unemployment benefits are required to accept jobs that provide comparable pay and conditions to the ones they held before.

Transportation is a factor. Main said. For example, if a man had been commuting 30 miles to his job and was offered another position that required 32 miles of travel, he would have to take the job or lose the benefits. If the new job required 50 miles of travel, he wouldn't have to take it.

Lionel L. Blakesley, a spokesman for the Utah Employment Security Department, said employers who complain of trouble in filling low-paying jobs may be setting their standards too high.

He said such employers frequently require applicants to have stability and experience and people with those qualifications can find better jobs.

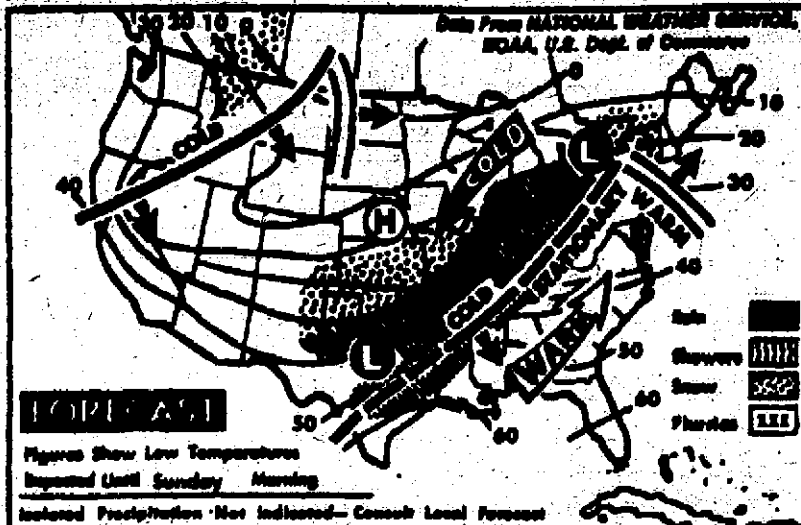

The state's unemployment rate in January was 6.5 per cent; maximum unemployment compensation is $93 a week.

Harry Hammond of the Maryland State Employment Security Administration said he does not know of low-paying jobs going begging.

"There's no major case of it going on," he said.

Hammond said that even when unemployment is high, there are a few jobs available — either with very low pay or very strict requirements.

"Over-all though, we just need a lot of jobs," Hammond said.

Mid-Michigan To Spend $369,000

BRIDGMAN — An estimated $369,000 is scheduled to be spent by Mid-Michigan Telephone corporation this year for improvements for its customers in southwestern Michigan, a spokesman has announced from the firm's offices here.

The improvements would come from a $3.6 million proposed 1975 system-wide improvement program.

Ronald Christensen, district manager for the firm said $243,000 will be spent in the Bridgman, Baroda and Sawyer service areas while the balance of the southwestern Michigan commitment will be in the Lawrence, Lacota and Pullman areas.

Most of the money will go towards converting multi-party telephone service to private or one-party lines and adding new circuitry, the division manager said.

Mid-Michigan serves more than 38,000 telephones in the state's lower peninsula and is a subsidiary of Mid-Continent Telephone corporation which serves more than 700,000 phones in 12 states east of the Mississippi. Mid-Continent is the nation's fifth-largest independent telephone company.

Third Party Talk Growing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Along the main hotel corridor, the leaders of various conservative causes were hawking their wares — biographies of Ronald Reagan, anti-media articles and books, posters protesting the Equal Rights Amendment.

Inside, panelists were proving that conservatives can be as divided as liberals, some seeking support for a conservative third party while others insisted the proper course was to work within the Republican party.

The event is the 1975 Conservative Political Action Conference, bringing together just about every major conservative spokesman except Barry Goldwater and William F. Buckley Jr. to map strategy for 1976.

Republican leaders, already apprehensive about the worsening economic situation in the wake of last November's GOP electoral disasters, are very much concerned about the conservative threat to split their already depleted ranks.

And with good reason, judging from the reaction to speakers at panel discussions here Friday.

When Mississippi Republican Chairman Clarke Reed and Rep. Philip Crane, R-Ill., called for conservatives to stay in the party, the 500 delegates sat silently.

When conference chairman M. Stanton Evans, chairman of the American Conservative Union, said he believes a conservative third party is necessary next year, there was enthusiastic applause.

"I am convinced there will be a third party in 1976," said Howard Phillips, once Richard M. Nixon's choice to dismantle the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Although Ford is a major target of conservative ire, because of the deficit, his conditional amnesty program and U.S. Soviet detente, the chief villain continues to be Nelson A. Rockefeller, now Ford's vice president.

Having battled him for control of the GOP for years, the conservatives may be the last major group that still considers the former New York governor as a dangerous liberal. They aren't happy about his new eminence.

On Friday night, Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., who opposed Rockefeller's confirmation, took off after the vice president and said the GOP will never convince the country it "is not the party of the rich by putting up candidates whose very names are associated with unsavory privilege, monopoly and manipulation of wealth."

He called for a conservative conference to write a platform for submission to the two major existing parties that "may be" a basis for a third party, declaring that if that is done and a new party is needed, "we will be ready."

Rep. John M. Ashbrook, R-Ohio, said that he's not ready yet to chuck the Republican party. But, he said, whatever the conservatives decide to do, "I'm going to be with you."

"Every driver that's good has to scare himself—constantly, over and over again. You never drive the thing 100 percent. You drive it 105 percent. If you drive it at 115 percent, you're going to crash."—Bobby Unser

"I've been scared many times. When a guy says he doesn't get scared, I say he's either a liar or a complete idiot. Usually that type's never a winner anyway. They can't run fast enough to get in a wreck. They just want to be a hero in the public's eye and act brave."
—A. J. Foyt

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR JAN STERLING, actress

What was your relationship with Humphrey Bogart?—Mary Moore, Canton, Ohio

● I can't say I knew him well, but he was involved in a very important day in my life. I'd been dating Paul Douglas and we were invited to spend an afternoon on the Bogarts' boat. Bogey liked to wander around and talk to people in other boats that were tied up at the dock. While he was gone that afternoon, Paul and I decided to become engaged. When we broke the news to Bogey, he shrugged and said, "Don't blame me." Paul and I were married soon after.

FOR JOHNNY MATHIS

What do your brothers and sisters do, and how do they regard your huge success?—L. Thimmesch, Racine, Wis.

● My three brothers and three sisters are very happy husbands or wives. Two of my brothers are with sales companies. The other brother, Ralph Mathis, is an entertainer and is gathering fans in California. My family has coped with my "success" and all lead very normal lives in spite of it! I'm glad to say, though, that they're all fans.

FOR PETE ROZELLE, commissioner of the National Football League

There have been rumors that the World Football League will give up trying to make it as a league and that the franchises will be absorbed into the National Football League. True?—Richard Ryan, North Tonawanda, N.Y.

● No. There will be no complete or partial mergers with any World Football team. Our league has never considered such a plan. The World Football League will have to make it on its own without help from us.

FOR RODDY McDOWALL

Did your life as a child actor differ from that of non-acting kids?—B. G., Vancouver, Wash.

● I started in movies when I was eight, and I think I did all the things other kids did. But when I went out to play, I was told never to get hurt, since it would delay whatever film I was working on. That kept me out of a lot of fights, believe me!

FOR MARILYN MCCOO of "The Fifth Dimension"

Why aren't black women more active in Women's Lib?—F. Lorr, Ogden, Utah

● Black women have had to work and scuffle for survival ever since they came to this country. Few of us have known what it's like to just stay home and take care of our children and work at looking pretty for our husbands. Black women are just getting to this economic position, and they're ready to be pampered. It takes a certain amount of affluence before you begin to worry about being "fulfilled."

FOR DINA MERRILL, actress

You seem to have the figure for mini-skirts, but I don't remember ever seeing you in one. How come?—Mrs. Donald Johnson, Canton, Ohio

● I never wore mini-skirts because I felt they were for the very young and not for me. I'm not a no-bra type, either. In fact, I think youngsters who are going bra-less now will be really sorry in 20 years.

FOR BILL CHADWICK, former hockey referee

Will American youngsters ever play hockey better than Canadians?—S. G., Anchorage, Alaska

● Yes. Americans are the hockey stars of the future simply because we now have as much "ice" as the Canadians do. When I was a lad, there were relatively few ice rinks in this country. Today there are hundreds.

FOR RICHARD CHAMBERLAIN

What was the worst experience you ever had onstage?—S. T. T., Stockton, Calif.

● Opening night of "Hamlet" in England. It was a terribly important night to me, and right at the beginning of the play I simply couldn't remember my lines. Nothing! Everyone tried to cue me and their words crossed so I couldn't understand a thing. It was devastating! Fortunately, everyone was most kind about it afterward.

FOR KAREN VALENTINE

I hear you wear staples or pins in your ears to curb your appetite. I'm interested, and would appreciate some advice.—Herbert Nolte, Las Cruces, N.M.

● I find it very beneficial, but of course, what's good for one person may not be good for another. All I can suggest is that if you're really concerned about your weight, you may want to explore the method, which is a form of acupuncture. But check with your doctor first.

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

I want to help my husband learn to relax. Can you tell me what male celebrities do when they want to get rid of tension?—A. N. S., Savannah, Ga.

● Here's what several of them told us: Irving Wallace goes on a shopping spree for gadgets or wanders through the gourmet section of food markets; Frank Gifford says he just likes to be where he doesn't have to stand on ceremony and can be himself; actor Leo Fuchs prefers a Turkish bath, then a massage; hair stylist Vidal Sassoon goes to a health spa (for ten days at a time, he says); movie producer Joseph E. Levine plays with his granddaughter; Truman Capote gets in a car and just keeps going; couturier Lew Prince of Aldrich stitches away at needlepoint; actor Jimmy Coco cooks lasagna; and Jim Brown, the football-star-turned-actor, goes dancing!

The Most Interesting Women I've Ever Met

By Sheila Graham
Especially for FAMILY WEEKLY

On Germaine Greer—

"I almost didn't recognize her, she looked so feminine and pretty. Was this the face and voice that had sunk a thousand male chauvinist pigs?"

What a tough woman!" I thought, listening to Germaine Greer on television. It was a talk show, British style, which means no holds barred. Ms. Greer was more than holding her own. The Australian-born, Cambridge-educated intellectual was annihilating her opponent, who had written a book on what fun it was to be feminine and to spend all your time looking after the man you loved.

Ms. Greer, seething at the nostrils (there were red sparks in her eyes, but it could have been a cold), called her opponent a traitor to her sex—a sex that she and a handful of strong-minded and (I thought) mostly masculine women were endeavoring to liberate.

The author of "The Female Eunuch" was so intellectual on the subject she was sometimes hard to follow, but it was clear that she despised men. I had heard that Bill Buckley— isn't he divinely handsome!—had gored Germaine almost fatally on their televised fight of the sexes. When I saw it later I thought she had held her own. But she was still seething about it when I met her for lunch at Drones, the "in" place and the most expensive in London.

I almost didn't recognize her, she looked so feminine and pretty. Was this the face and voice that had sunk a thousand male chauvinist pigs? "This is where the celebrities come," she told me. Then—"Oh look, there's the man from —" naming a popular British TV series. He was the second lead, not even the star. The 35-year-old brainy lady sounded like an 11-year-old girl who had just spotted Donny Osmond.

Settling down, her conversation was fascinating: How she had learned from men to fight for what she wanted, for what she believed in, of how she was in love with a popular singer—was it the virile Tom Jones?—that she was searching for the perfect lover, that she might marry again, although she had recently divorced Paul DuFeu, who then wrote a book about her—"Let's Hear It for the Long-Legged Women"—and that she wanted a child. All this interpolated with stanzas from 16th-century European poetry. When I recited a 20th-century prose-poet, F. Scott Fitzgerald—she put her face in an attentive position, but her eyes became somewhat glazed. She's bored, I thought. Not a bit. She was getting tiddly. She had downed four glasses of champagne, and interrupted me to ask, "Is it all right if I have a fifth glass?" "Of course," I replied, and realized that I, who am so femininely soft and helpless when it comes to bill time, was paying for the lunch. In all my career as a columnist and authoress, I have never paid for a lunch!

Outside in the cool air, she stroked my mink coat—she was wearing an imitation something. "So soft," she cooed. Jumping daintily into a taxi, she shouted back, "I'm late for my hair appointment!"

Women's Liberation indeed! She had forced me into the man's role, while she had been clinging (but not helpless) and female.

An interesting experience. Very!

On Dorothy Parker—

"I'm so sorry to disappoint you," she said apologetically, 'but the tattoo is on my arm.'"

Dorothy Parker was one of my first assignments in America. I had heard of her, of course, and knew all her famous bon mots like "Men seldom make passes at girls who wear glasses," etc. Knowing she was, as they say, a "real character," I was rather nervous as I rang the bell of her suite at the Lowell Hotel in New York. I had expected to find her alone, and was somewhat discomfited to find her with John O'Hara, who had recently been acclaimed for his best-selling novel "Appointment in Samarra," and Alan Campbell, a young writer she would shortly marry.

Wide World

I timidly asked my questions. She had been tattooed in the Bowery two evenings before, and The New York Daily Mirror, for which I was a reporter, wanted to know where and why. I expected to be murdered verbally. Instead Miss Parker looked at me sweetly from the black smudges that were her eyes. Her face, which always reminded me of a tired Renoir, creased into a gracious smile.

"I'm so sorry to disappoint you," she said apologetically, "but the tattoo is on my arm," and she showed me a tiny and utterly unremarkable tattoo.

They returned to the discussion I had interrupted: How could she exit from the Lowell, to which she owed several months' rent, without being seen by the management? It was decided that she would pretend to be seriously ill and the ambulance men would carry the dying debtor through the lobby to freedom.

When I left, she told me to be sure to call on her again, "anytime." I phoned, but she was never in. (The ambulance plan, I understand, was abandoned.)

It was different in Hollywood. I was a friend of her friends at the Garden of Allah. These included Robert Benchley—whom she always called Mr. Benchley—O'Hara, Fitzgerald, Marc Connelly, Eddie Mayer, Alan Campbell (now her husband) and various writers working on scripts at the studios. They all despised the producers they worked for, but all pocketed enormous salaries. It was fun listening to them, although Dorothy would immediately blast the person who had just left.

Most of her witticisms were directed against her eager entourage. Her barbs were cruel, but sometimes she was very funny. Like the time Scott and I dined with her and she talked in whispers, afraid of being overheard. She had planned to go to New York and had given a farewell party the night before. "We said goodbye to everyone, then found we had to stay." She and her husband were in hiding, going out only at night in disguise to walk the dog.

On Scottie Fitzgerald—

"Leaving a studio telephone booth after a conversation with her father, she once hissed in my ear, 'I'll kill him!'"

You may have seen photographs of her with her parents—Christmas in Paris, the three of them in front of the tree, her leg raised in a dancing pose. A chubby child, a mother with madness in her staring eyes, a father who drank to excess. The little girl was Scottie Fitzgerald Lanahan Grove-Smith, daughter of F. Scott Fitzgerald and his wife Zelda, and she grew up to become one of the important political hostesses in Washington.

And, I think, one of the miracles of our time. Her mother once tried to kill her. Her father could be terrifying when he was on a bender—she was 12 when he tore her dress off in a rage over something or other. But even as a child, Scottie, who now has four grown-up children from her marriage to Jack Lanahan, was a survivor.

I met her in Hollywood when she was 15. Scottie was still a bit overweight, but very pretty, with her father's broad forehead, wide-apart green-gray eyes—and his charm. She was eager to see everything and everyone—especially Errol Flynn!

For many years, Sheila Graham wrote a syndicated column on the Hollywood scene. She has also written many magazine articles and several books. Perhaps the best-known of them is "Beloved Infidel," about F. Scott Fitzgerald. Her latest book is "How to Marry Super Rich" (Grosset & Dunlap, $7.95).

Scott was a demanding father. He criticized Scottie constantly, and, like any normal teenager, she resented it. They were always quarreling. He loved her but he alienated her with his overanxious supervision. Leaving a studio telephone booth after a conversation with her father, she once hissed in my ear, "I'll kill him!" I once became the buffer between daughter and father when he stopped her meager allowance after some real or fancied misdemeanor.

When Scott died in 1940, a few days before Christmas, Scottie wrote me a beautiful letter. "It must be some consolation to you to know how much you helped him when no one else would," she said, adding a postscript—"Is his blue Ford around and his typewriter? I could use them both."

That postscript, I always thought, is a clue to Scottie's survival. She is a practical person who accepts friends and enemies, triumphs and disasters as they come. She did not cancel the party for Adlai Stevenson on the night he was defeated for the Presidency. It was a great success, and everyone, including Scottie and Adlai, had a great time. I've met the most interesting people in Washington at Scottie's house—from Arthur Schlesinger to Newbold Noyes, one of the owners of The Washington Star. Authors, painters, politicians and publishers come at the drop of an invitation. They have to write down the date, and so does Scottie, because she is liable to forget. To be a whole person, she had to block out the anguish of her growing-up years, caused by the two people who loved her the most, her parents. But the vagueness and the mixing up of plans is a small inconvenience to pay for the delightful person into which she evolved.

On Marilyn Monroe—

"Before leaving she was asked to sign the guest book. Under 'Address,' she wrote, 'Nowhere.'"

A national magazine was giving a cocktail party at the Beverly Hills Hotel to announce its annual awards for the best this and that in the film industry. They were all there—Clark, Gregory, Van, and hundreds of male and female starlets who one day might or might not be famous.

"Who's that?" my date, an important magazine editor from New York, demanded. Following the direction of his pointed finger, I recognized a blonde newcomer to the Hollywood scene. She was surrounded by admiring men. "Oh her," I said without too much interest. "That's Marilyn Monroe. She's just played a bit for John Huston at MGM in 'The Asphalt Jungle.'"

He wanted to meet her.

Looking deeply into those marvelous eyes, he told Marilyn, "You're going to be a big star."

She never forgot his prophecy. Every time I saw her she asked after him and sent her regards. That was Marilyn. She made every man feel he had a special place in her heart.

Poor lost lady. She tried so hard to cope with

A Little-Discussed Problem Of Drinkers

For women whose husbands are heavy drinkers, the marriage breaking point often occurs when the men lose interest in marital relations. Many people realize that temporary alcoholic overindulgence may produce temporary male impotence. But few realize that the male alcoholic can develop sexual maladies that may continue even if he stops drinking. As psychologists Dennis Donovan and Ronald Kleinknecht reported to the 52nd Annual Meeting of The Western Psychological Association, "Even after he is no longer drinking, the chronic male alcoholic appears to be relatively indifferent to sexual activity. ... This may be due to physiological damage or to deterioration of those brain regions whose functions influence sexual behavior." And it's not just older men who may be affected. The U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare reports that in the past four years teenage drinking has risen so sharply that "one out of 20 teenagers is battling a drinking problem." Because of these new facts, young people who have been drinking too much may want to rethink their habits.—By Shirley Sloan Fader the worldwide adoration—an adoration that included President John Kennedy and his brother Bobby, Marlon Brando, Frank Sinatra, Joe DiMaggio, Arthur Miller and Yves Montand. She longed to be accepted, yet was afraid of people.

Away from the cameras and the publicity, Marilyn was merely a cute brown-haired girl who might still be alive if she had not been discovered for film stardom. The paint, the powder, the blonde dye could not eliminate her fearful insecurity. She tried, heaven knows how she tried, to believe in the image forced on her by the studio bosses.

"I drive around for hours in the morning because I can't face the people in the studio," she told me. She was continually breaking out in hives caused by her fears and nervousness. It took her six hours to prepare for the Hollywood premiere of her film, "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes." She wanted so much to improve as an actress and greedy hangers-on took advantage of her vulnerability.

The night before she died—of a combination of liquor and pills—she was dining at a restaurant at Malibu Beach. Before leaving she was asked to sign the guest book. Under "Address," she wrote, "Nowhere." She would be glad to know that she is not forgotten.

BARRY NEWMAN— TV's "PETROCELLI":

Why All This Interest In Astrology and Satanism?

"We are moving out of the age of reason and into an age of sensationalism," asserts Barry Newman, star of TV's "Petrocelli." "Our difficulties have become so great that we are looking for quick, easy solutions. Events like Watergate, oil shortages and mass starvation are so overwhelming that people have trouble facing the problems with reasoning. That's why you see such an increase of faith in astrology, satanism and approaches like scientology. People give up on reasoning and look for answers that work within six weeks. Mysticism becomes more attractive than thought. I don't know where all of this will lead, but it is an evasion. We have to return to the age of reason to make progress."—Interviewed by William Wolf

Jobmanship

Why Supervisors and Managers Don't Understand Each Other

It is no secret that first-line supervisors—those who direct the work of employees—and managers—who direct a group of supervisors—often have trouble understanding each other. Various psychological studies, including a recent one by the General Services Administration, explain it this way: Because supervisors and managers see their own job futures differently, they react in opposite ways to ideas such as "Promotions are based on ability and talent" or "People who do good jobs are rewarded." Managers tend to believe these ideas; supervisors don't. As first-line supervisors see it, they live in a kind of no-man's land. Supervisors aren't workers, yet they're not allowed the planning or decision-making freedom that managers have. Because supervisors feel their own promotion chances are restricted and that their talents never will be fully evaluated, they tend to regard management pep talks as unrealistic. As a result, say the experts, performance suffers when supervisors concentrate not on the manager's goals but on their own definition of attainable success: "security, respect and happiness." And since managers do have broad future opportunities, they tend to believe their own pep talks and mistakenly think that their supervisors also believe them. According to the psychologists, until management introduces new policies that allow supervisors to agree that "high performances will pay off for me," all those pep talks about extra effort and improved efficiency are not going to have much effect.—By S. R. Redford

Your Exterior— What Does It Say?

True or False: A tall person is more approachable than a short one. (See number 4)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Whether you come across as warm-hearted or cold depends more on one thing than anything else.
2. The better you like a person, the taller he looks.
3. A beard makes all the difference in what people think of a man.
4. A tall person is more approachable than a short one.

ANSWERS

1. True. Studies at Yale University show that the most important thing in determining whether you impress others as warmhearted is how often you smile. Nothing else carries as much weight.
2. True—if the person is a man. Status has also been found to have a marked effect on how tall we think a person is. One study showed that "as the ascribed academic status of a man was increased from student through professor, the man's perceived height increased a full five inches."

3. True. In a study at Memphis State University, investigators projected a picture onto a screen in such a manner that half the students in the audience saw a picture of a bearded man; the other half saw a picture of the same person clean-shaven. The bearded man was perceived more favorably in almost every respect, being judged as "more sincere, enthusiastic, generous, extroverted, masculine, inquisitive and stronger." But not all age groups share this enthusiasm. Many people take the view of one human-behavioral specialist who observes that beards seem to indicate that a man needs an artificial aid to win esteem: "They hide their inferiority feelings instead of compensating for them by useful and productive activity."

4. False. In studies at Virginia Commonwealth University, investigators conducted a test to determine literally who was most approachable, a short person or a tall one. Two psychology students were selected, one short and one tall. Eighty-four undergraduates were then instructed to approach each person, but to stop when they felt "uncomfortable." Results showed a dramatic difference: "Males and females maintained twice as much distance between themselves and the tall person than between themselves and the short person."

- 1/4 cup water
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley

1. Melt margarine; stir in lemon juice and salt.

Baked Carrots and Onion Rings: Follow recipe for Baked Carrots Julienne, arranging thin onion rings (1 medium onion) in layers with carrots and adding 1/2 teaspoon sugar to margarine mixture.

Makes 4 servings

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen builds a delicious dinner around pork shoulder. "When most people think of pork roast," says Marilyn, "they think of loin of pork. Try pork shoulder instead. It's less expensive and tastes just as good."

Fresh pears and sweet potatoes complement the good flavor of juicy roast pork.

PORK ROAST WITH GLAZED PEARS AND SWEETS

- 1 pork shoulder roast (4-5-lb. fresh Boston butt)
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 3 Anjou or Bosc pears (1 lb.), peeled and halved
- 2 lbs. sweet potatoes or yams, peeled and quartered
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine
- 1/4 cup firmly packed light- or dark-brown sugar
- 1/2 cup maple-blended syrup
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
- 1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 1 teaspoon cornstarch
- 2 tablespoons water

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Sprinkle roast with salt, pepper and cinnamon. Rub into meat.

2. Place roast on rack in baking pan, fat side up. Bake about 3 to 3 1/2 hours, allowing 25 minutes per pound.

3. Place pears and sweet potatoes around meat, continue baking. Spoon off fat.

4. In small saucepan, melt butter. Add brown sugar, syrup, cloves and nutmeg; blend. Combine cornstarch and water. Stir smoothly into sugar mixture. Heat to boiling, stirring.

5. Pour hot syrup over pears and sweet potatoes to glaze. Continue baking 30-60 minutes, until potatoes are tender.

Makes 6 servings

Editor's note: Either the all-purpose Anjou or Bosc fresh winter pear is ideal for baking. You'll easily identify the distinctive Bosc by its rich russet coloring and elongated neck. The popular Anjou has an oval shape and tender skin that is greenish-yellow even when ripe.

By Bob Thomas

How true is the commonly held notion that automobile racing drivers are fearless daredevils?

Some of the world's top contemporary drivers cast a far different image of themselves by their own descriptions of fear and racing. In fact, most of them admit they scare themselves all the time. And one of the things they fear the most, they confess, are drivers who say they aren't afraid.

The men were selected worldwide to match driving skills in the unique International Race of Champions series for ABC-TV's "Wide World of Sports." Three of them—Graham Hill, Richard Petty and Jody Scheckter—have since been disqualified, but the others were scheduled to compete this weekend in the finals at Daytona International Speedway.

Here's what the drivers had to say in answer to the question, "Do you get scared racing?"

BOBBY UNSER, 1974 U.S. Auto Club national champion and 1968 Indianapolis 500 winner:

"Sure I get scared. You've gotta hang it all out if you're any good at all. And that's when it can be scary."

A. J. FOYT, three-time Indianapolis 500 winner:

"I've been scared many times.... The worst moments are when you pop a tire or something breaks, or when someone crashes or spins in front of you. I think I'm more scared about killing someone else."

For more of what Unser and Foyt had to say about fear, see our cover.

CALE YARBOROUGH, 1968 Daytona stock-car winner:

"I can't say I do get scared any more. When I was coming up, hell yes. Courage is nothing more than controlled fear. Learning how to control it was the turning point in my career.

At first when something would happen in front of me, I'd get scared and start figuring out what to do. By the time I figured it out, I'd be right in the middle of it. Now, I just go right on—and later think back: 'Now how'd I get through that, you reckon?'"

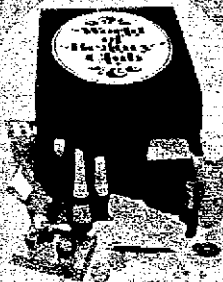

GRAHAM HILL of England, two-time world champion and 1966 Indianapolis 500 winner:

"If a driver doesn't know fear, he doesn't know common sense. He's going to be a menace to himself and everyone else. If a driver really is fearless—and I rather doubt that, no matter what one might say—he's not going to last anyway. The most frightening time of all for me is when something goes a bit wrong with the car, something I have no control over."

“Do You Get Scared Racing?”

GEORGE FOLLMER, 1972 Can-Am and Trans-Am road-racing champion:

“Would you want to be out there with a guy who says he doesn’t scare or won’t admit it? No, because there’s something wrong with him. He isn’t going to be too concerned whether he takes someone with him or not. The fact is that it’s a dangerous situation you’re in all the time. You’ve got to scare yourself. You can’t help it.”

JOHNNY RUTHERFORD, 1974 Indianapolis 500 winner:

“You can’t allow yourself the luxury of being scared. You’re going so fast out there on the track, you don’t have time. You have to have total concentration. Usually, fear is just an afterthought. When something happens and you get through, you say to yourself, ‘Wow, man, if this or that happened, it would have been something.’ Most people think fire is our greatest fear. It isn’t. More than anything, you dread having something break on you.”

EMERSON FITTIPALDI of Brazil, 1974 world champion:

“The greatest scare in my life came in a recent Dutch Grand Prix. During practice a wheel broke as I entered a corner at about 150 mph. From the time the wheel broke to the time I hit the wall was maybe two-tenths of a second. In that two-tenths I realized I was out of control and that I was going to hit the wall very hard. I was very, very scared [he was trapped in the car for seven minutes]. I was petrified with fear that the car would catch fire [it didn’t and he walked away uninjured]. During the time you’re trying to control your car you are not scared. It is the moment you realize you have lost control that you become scared.”

DAVID PEARSON, 1966, ’68, ’69 NASCAR champion and 1973 Driver of the Year:

“I don’t think I get scared. And I don’t get butterflies. Maybe it’s because I’m too busy even to think about it. Except—do you think that because I have to go to the bathroom right quick before every race it could mean I’m scared or nervous? I dunno. I never thought about that before. I guess I’ve just thought it was because I knew that I had a long race and it’s the last chance for me to go.”

JODYSHECKTER of South Africa, 1973 Formula 5000 champion and Formula One driver for Team Tyrrell:

“Generally, no. You don’t have time to be scared. In Formula One racing we’re constantly on the ragged edge. You have to be competitive. You couldn’t stay scared all the time. Or even think about it.”

BOBBY ALLISON, American stock-car driver and 1972 Driver of the Year:

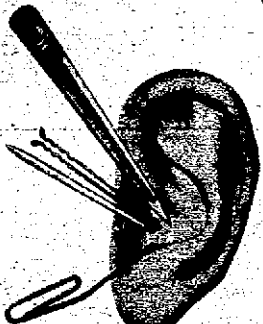

“Anytime I’ve made it through an accident, I say, ‘Well, it’s over and I made it.’ I don’t really think about it, the danger, that is, at other times. You know that hazards are there, but you’re busy with things like the heat, the car, the competition.”

RICHARD PETTY, five-time winner of the Daytona 500:

“I can’t really say I’ve never been scared in a car. I guess you have anxious moments about anything. On the racetrack things happen so quick you don’t have time to be scared. After you’ve rolled around the track a few times and are just lying there, then there ain’t no reason to be scared because it’s all over. After a bad accident I don’t remember anything anyway. My mind is just blank. I think this is a God-given thing that keeps people from waking up in the middle of the night and just going berserk.”

THE 1975 HAMILTON MINT

St. Patrick's Day Medal

A PROOF FINISH LIMITED EDITION
IN 999 FINE SILVER AND 24KT GOLD ON SILVER

ST. PATRICK'S DAY is traditionally observed in America's great cities with colorful parades and marching bands. But the real spirit of St. Patrick's Day is much more than just festivity—it is a unique commemoration of the faith, hope, belief and inspiration of the Irish people and their patron saint.

The Hamilton Mint is thus proud to present a tribute to both St. Patrick and the Irish with an exceptionally beautiful medallion masterpiece, a work of art you will be proud to own and display.

THE 1975 ST. PATRICK'S DAY MEDAL

Each beautiful medal will be struck from a full ounce of solid 999 fine silver, the finest and purest available, and each will contain 480 grains of this increasingly valuable metal, and each will measure a full 1 1/2 inches in diameter. The medal is designed by H. Alvin Sharpe, master of the intricate intaglio method of engraving, that pre-dates the birth of Christ.

The medal bears a superbly-executed likeness of St. Patrick, which is set against a gleaming proof finish; the reverse side faithfully depicts Ireland's legendary Muckross Abbey.

AVAILABLE IN SOLID SILVER
OR 24 KT GOLD ON SILVER

You may purchase this uncommonly fine art medal in 999 fine silver for just $12.50 each.

Or you can order the medal in lovely 24 Kt gold on 999 silver for only $17.50. Each medal will be accompanied by a registered Certificate of Authenticity attesting to the limited edition status and precious metal content of the issue. The 1975 St. Patrick's Day Medal is certain to become a treasured family heirloom and a valuable addition to your personal collection.

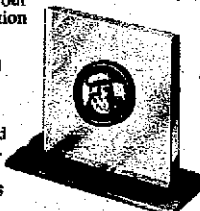

A STRICTLY LIMITED EDITION

Only one edition of this beautiful medal will ever be struck and because rarity can add substantially to a potential increase in value, The Hamilton Mint has set a strict deadline of March 30, 1975 for all orders. Any Applications postmarked after that date will be regrettably returned.

We anticipate the demand for this issue to be quite great, so it is essential that you complete and return your application to your Collector's Application without delay.

Free Display Stand

You will receive, with our compliments, a handsome stand to protect and display your medal.

BABY BINAR AND MOM
Apes are easier than kids

A study in tranquility: Binar, a tiny Sumatran orangutan who's barely more than a few weeks old, has proved much easier to care for than a human baby of the same age, according to Mrs. Yoka Leeflang, wife of the Perth Zoo manager in Australia. Mrs. Leeflang has often wanted a baby ape as a pet and destiny brought Binar into her life when the real mother abandoned her. Just like her human counterparts, Binar needs to be fed every four hours during the day, and must have her diapers changed. But the advantage is that baby apes sleep all through the night. Once they go to sleep, that's it. They don't wake up till morning.

ALFRED BROWNING PARKER
A builder of words too

Leading architect Alfred Browning Parker is famous chiefly for what he says in concrete. But he has a pretty good way with words too. Recently he chatted with FAMILY WEEKLY and came forth with the following notions:

- Seek in the problem for the answers, not in your ego.
- Courage is when you do something you are afraid to do.
- Quality is expensive—and priceless.
- The question is often asked, "Are you an architect?" And I reply, "Sometimes."

- Do not adapt too perfectly to your environment. You must be able to change.

Elton John as Peck's Bad (Very Bad)

Boy: When pop singer Elton went before Queen Elizabeth in October, 1972, for the first time, his performance was a real royal shocker. Following Liberace, "Elton finally went on-stage before the Queen and the audience—the ultimate in stuffed shirts. He had two numbers to do, and the crowd kept calling stiffly: 'Do Your Song,' or 'Do "Rocket Man." But the mischievous piano man brought out Legs Larry to tap dance to 'I Think I'm Gonna Kill Myself,' and the band released balloons that actually made obscene noises. The entire effect was lost on TV, but the audience was shocked and infuriated as the balloons whizzed around their tiaraed heads while they murmured, 'Ooooooo! Ooooooo! Backstage the rowdies and friends were rolling on the floor in uncontrollable belly laughter.' From "Elton John," by Cathi Stein (Popular Library, $1.50).

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY By Richard Armour

THREE CHEERS FOR INSOMNIA!

Insomnia? I wouldn't end it.
It has a great deal to commend it.
I watch the late late TV show,
I listen to the radio,
I read the books that others miss,
I think of that and think of this,
I plan, I scheme, and need not hurry,

I've hours and hours in which to worry.
What if my eyes have purplish bags?
What if each eyelid slightly sags?
What if all day I'm barely creeping?
At least I don't waste nights by sleeping.

A fellow, asked why he walked so cautiously on the icy sidewalk, replied, "Yesterday I took one small step for man and one bone-crushing fall for Blue Cross."

Our incredible Magic Calculator will turn you into a math wizard! Only $1.99, yet it performs many of the same functions as the most expensive calculators costing many times this price. Add with it . . . subtract . . . multiply — Calculator keeps a running total automatically!

Use it at home to balance your bank statement . . . unscramble your bills . . . compute your budget. Take it along shopping to tabulate the cost of your groceries — or whatever else you're buying — before reaching the checkout counter! Use it at school . . . at the office — anywhere you have to deal with numbers.

With Calculator in hand, you'll never again have to struggle and fret over long columns of numbers! $5\frac{1}{2}"$ x $2\frac{3}{4}"$, it's so skinny and compact you can easily carry it in shirt pocket or purse. Comes with complete easy-to-follow operating instructions. Magic Calculator is only \$1.99 — order today!
